OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has protested to the United States against its new prohibition on imports of dairy products, charging that it violates the Geneva Trade Agreement and threatens "immediate damage" to Canadian trade with the U.S.

Negotiate To End Strike As Court Injunction Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Efforts to settle a wage dispute which has shut down most of the United States copper industry continued today with labor and operators negotiating, while President Truman moved to obtain a back-to-work order from the courts.

The President issued an executive order last night to put the emergency machinery of the Taft-Hartley labor act in motion. The strike, which Truman earlier termed a serious threat to the U.S. defense program because copper is a scarce and critical metal, started Monday.

The President named a three-man board of inquiry which went to work at once in an effort to report back on the facts by next Tuesday. The board is not authorized to recommend a settlement.

A court injunction, to force an end of the strike, may not be obtained before the board reports, under terms of the Taft-Hartley law. Once obtained, it runs for 60 days.

Firemen Revive Victim Of Gas

Henry Laddie, 33, of 1212 Queens Avenue, employee of the Victoria Gas Works, was revived by a Victoria Fire Department inhalator crew at 9:30 a.m. today when he was overcome by gas fumes while working on gas mains.

Laddie was taken to Jubilee Hospital for observation. He was taken to hospital by Constables Lorne Shanley and Jack Perry after Firemen A. Adamson and D. O'Connell and Assistant Fire Chief James Bayliss had revived him.

Board Okays Boost For Pulp Workers

A conciliation board has recommended to the Labor Relations Board that 4,000 pulp and paper workers employed by seven companies receive a 16 1/2 per cent hourly wage increase, with a minimum boost of 22 cents.

R.C.M.P. Speed To New Douk Trouble

B.C. Government Tackles Problem

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Government commission on Doukhobor problems began the ticklish problem of working out its recommendation for resettlement of the trouble-making Sons of Freedom, while R.C.M.P. reinforcements sped toward the Kootenay and Okanagan regions to quell new outbursts of violence.

Wednesday night the commission wound up a hectic two-day meeting here behind closed doors and announced it was "hopeful" that resettlement, probably at Adams Lake, would meet Provincial Government approval.

The windup came only minutes before Attorney-General Gordon Visner announced from Victoria that "in view of the seriousness of the situation, we have decided to augment our regular police forces in the area."

Outbursts of terrorism, blamed on the radical Sons, have resulted in blastings of Kootenay Power Company high-voltage poles at Sheep Creek, near Rossland, which left Greenwood, Rossland and Okanagan points without power for hours.

Rail unions have refused to operate trains on the C.P.R.'s Kootenay division between Nelson and Grand Forks for two months because of recurrent uprisings and railroad track blastings in the area.

The government commission studying the problem is convinced that resettlement of the Sons provides the best hope of a lasting solution.

This was disclosed today by the External Affairs Department as it made public the text of a 300-word diplomatic note handed to the State Department by the Canadian Embassy in Washington earlier this week.

The note said a recent announcement of the U.S. Department of Agriculture regarding control of imports of fats, oils and other dairy products "has created a situation which is of urgent concern to the Canadian government."

"The restriction of the imports of dried milk products, and cheese in particular, will cause immediate damage to Canadian trade with the United States."

WIDER IMPLICATIONS
Calling attention to "the more far-reaching implications of the American action, the note said the restrictions 'are contrary to the obligations which the two governments have assumed toward one another in the general agreements on tariffs and trade.'"

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two Americans missing since Aug. 2 in northern Saskatchewan have been found safe and sound, air force officials said here today.

Cruiser Primed And Painted To Carry Prince And Princess

H.M.C.S. Ontario was the belle of the Royal Canadian Navy today as she sailed for the east coast with modern drapes in her stern scullies.

Cleaned, painted and all dressed up for a royal assignment the cruiser was bound for Halifax, N.S., in company with the destroyer Huron, returning home after five months in Korean waters.

Capt. E. P. Tisdall the Ontario's commander, was in his sea cabin on the bridge as the Admiral's flat had been transformed into a modern suite for the heiress to the throne.

When Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip board the Ontario at the end of their Canadian tour, they will find all the comfort of a luxury liner aboard the 556-foot craft.

The Princess will get the admiral's three-piece flat and the Prince will get the smaller, two-piece captain's flat. Though both quarters are on the same deck, about 50 feet apart, a watertight door makes them two separate compartments.

The captain's wife, Eve, was the chief interior decorator. She chose aqua and gold as the color theme for the Princess' flat and decorated the Prince's quarters in shades of brown and yellow.

The day cabin for the Princess has been made into an aerie room. The sea-cool color has been used for the bulkheads to match the background of a flowered English print, covering two large chaise-longues. The complementing cherry chair is found in the antique satin chair covering.

BIRCH-BARK PRINT

The dining cabin where the Royal couple will take their meals was bright with a straw-gold broadloom. A birch-bark textured print was a gay note at both scullies and portiers. In the small cabin where the

Fabulous Speed Attained By Jet

14.5 Miles High

EL SEGUNDO, Calif. (AP)—A United States Navy rocket-powered plane has shattered all altitude records, climbing to what aviation experts unofficially believe was 77,674 feet (more than 14 1/2 miles). It leveled off at 1,300 miles an hour.

The flight in the Douglas Skyrocket was made August 15, from Edwards Air Force base. The exact altitude reached by the Douglas test pilot, Bill Bridgeman, was not disclosed.

Bridgeman's plane was dropped from the bomb bay of a Superfort at 35,000 feet.

GANDER, Nfld. (CP)—A British twin-jet bomber streaked across the Atlantic in four hours, 18 1/2 minutes today to set a record.

R. P. Beaumont, 31, an R.A.F. ace of the Second World War, was pilot.

Roland Leads Phil Farley In Match Play

ROYAL OTTAWA GOLF CLUB (CP)—Laurie Roland of Vancouver, Canadian junior champion, had a one-up lead today over Phil Farley, Toronto veteran, at the half-way mark in their 36-hole semi-final match in the Canadian Amateur Golf Championship.

In an even closer match between another Vancouver boy and the lone American survivor, Walter McElroy, and Fred Kammer, Jr., of Detroit, were all square.

A heavy rain made play uncomfortable. It stopped about the time they had completed nine holes, but heavy, dark clouds hung low over the course and there was little prospect of improvement for the afternoon play. It was still damp and cold.

The players were drenched by the time they reached the first green. Later, with a let-up in the rain, they started to shed surplus clothing.

Roland, 18, and Farley kept up an exchange of holes on the first nine that left them all square. Farley had a medal 37 and Roland 38. On the back nine it was 39 each, giving Farley an 18-hole medal of 76 and Roland 77.

The tight Kammer-McElroy match left both with 72's for the morning round, one over par.

Missing Hunters' Plane May Be Found

EDMONTON (CP)—A party of R.C.A.F. aircraft identification experts and R.C.M.P. was en route today to investigate a burned-out plane wreck in the Whitecourt area, 110 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The wreck is believed to be a plane reported missing last Oct. 14, with five hunters aboard.

The craft was almost totally destroyed by fire. Rusted fire-arms and a number of bones were found in the burned bulk.

The wreckage was reported by two Indians Wednesday and later examined by R.C.M.P. officers.

Launch Inquiry In Collision Of B.C. Vessels

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Capt. J. C. Barbour, Department of Transport representative here, launched a preliminary inquiry today into the collision of two coastal passenger ships near Prince Rupert yesterday.

Both the Canadian National steamship Prince Rupert and the Canadian Pacific steamship Princess Kathleen were badly holed in the collision 60 miles north-west of Prince Rupert.

The collision occurred off Lord Rock in dense fog. Both vessels were en route from Vancouver to Alaska ports when they smashed together.

Many of the sleeping American passengers were flung from their bunks. Marine men said it was a miracle there were no injuries.

The Kathleen was badly holed and listed from taking water in a forward compartment. Marine men said both vessels would have to be drydocked for examination.

Passengers expressed doubt that either ship was steaming much faster than 10 or 12 knots when they ground together.

Of the 287 passengers aboard the Kathleen, almost 200 were Americans. There were 175 passengers on a tour sponsored by the Young Men's Institute of San Francisco.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian National Steamships, today, announced cancellation of the scheduled Monday sailing of the cruise ship Prince Rupert for Alaska and way ports.

Next C.N.S. sailing for northern ports will be Sept. 10 when the Prince George will replace the Prince Rupert, damaged in a collision yesterday in northern waters with Canadian Pacific Steamships' Princess Kathleen.

The Rupert will leave Prince Rupert tonight, after completion of temporary repairs to her bow and is expected here Sunday. She will be out of service a week.

U.S. To Build Radar Screen For Air Bases

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Air Force is planning a "radar screen" for its bases in Britain, western Europe and the Mediterranean area.

An air force spokesman confirmed today that "a sizable part" of the $1,071,000,000 requested of Congress for "classified" air force construction overseas will go into such an air raid warning and patrol system.

Work has been speeded up on the $161,000,000 defense warning system around the U.S. and Alaska. This radar screen is being constructed to give advance warning against possible surprise attacks from the air.

The number of warning stations and the locations are secret. But they work with similar installations in Canada.

U.N. Spokesman Foresees 'No Permanent Breakdown'

TOKYO (AP)—An Allied spokesman said today "there is no indication that there will be a permanent breakdown" in truce talks to end the Korea war.

The spokesman made the statement amid a welter of new Communist charges that United Nations violated the Kaesong neutral zone in Korea.

The U.N. command began an immediate investigation of the new complaints. There were three of them. All previous charges have been denied.

Another Victoria resident, Mrs. Mabel Sampson, has been promoted to Serving Sister in the order.

North Koreans Said Moving To East Front

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea (AP)—Thousands of North Korean troops were reported today moving toward the front in hilly eastern Korea. Savage fighting has been in progress there more than two weeks.

Yesterday and last night, Allied planes ripped into these reinforcements, into their highway supply convoys and the railroads feeding down to Communist front lines all across Korea.

Allies supplied their own front line troops with the biggest air drop in two months. Thirty-six flying box cars parachuted 110 tons of ammunition, rations and medical supplies yesterday to troops battling high in the mountains of eastern Korea. Rain-swollen streams and muddy roads cut off truck routes.

FRESH DIVISION
A U.S. Eighth Army staff officer today reported these new observations of Communist troops in eastern Korea:

A fresh division, about 8,000 men, digging in west of the coastal city of Kamsong, 25 miles north of Parallel 38.

About 2,000 Reds moving south toward Yanggu, a city eight miles north of 38 and 35 miles inland from the east coast. Allied planes roared down and attacked this group.

Two other groups of 5,000 Reds each in camouflaged positions west of Kamsong and north of Hye. Allied artillery fired on these concentrations yesterday.

The staff officer said all the new Reds presumably are North Koreans. In the past, large Communist drives had been spearheaded by Chinese Reds.

Allied troops repulsed four Communist probing attacks north of Yanggu yesterday.

Children Banned From Gatherings

HALIFAX (BUP)—The Provincial Government yesterday banned children under 16 from attending movies, churches, schools and other gatherings in an effort to combat a polio epidemic which has infected 120 persons here since June.

All Halifax police and other civic officers were empowered to enforce the action, instituted mainly in the Halifax area. Violation carries a $100 fine or prison term.

MORBID MYSTERIES BAFFLE FRANCE

Did Kindly Marie Murder Twelve?

By ROBERT C. WILSON

PARIS. (AP)—France could use a Sherlock Holmes today to help solve three baffling mysteries which have brought violent death to 17 persons.

Where did the grain come from that went into the bread in the little southern town of Pont-Saint-Esprit—bread that killed four persons and set at least 40 others writhing in the agonies of "St. Anthony's Fire?"

Did kindly, matronly Marie Besnard, 53, feed fatal doses of arsenic to her two husbands and 10 other persons, including close relatives, in-laws and friends? They all died between 1927 and 1947, and Madame Besnard—now in jail awaiting trial—acquired a great deal of wealth during that time, much of it in legacies.

Is it the body of Madame Maria Smigly-Rydz, widow of the late Polish Army Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, that was found under a bridge on the Riviera in July? If so—and police think it is, though the head, legs and arms are missing—who did it?

Case No. 1: Police figure they've got the bread deaths partly cleared up. The bread was poisoned by Ergot, they say, a fungus disease that hits cereals in rainy spells and causes what was known from medieval times as "fervent fever" or "St. Anthony's Fire."

Police believe the poisoned grain may have come from farmers who sold it clandestinely to avoid taxes, and other paper formalities. Officials said they had traced the flour used in the bread to a new mill.

Case No. 2: Back in 1945, Leon Besnard, second husband of Madame Besnard, died in the little town of Loudon in western France. Every one thought it was from natural causes until a tip from neighbors caused police to dig up his body in 1949. They said tests showed he died of arsenic poisoning.

This led them to dig up 11 other bodies and all of them, said the police, were drenched in arsenic. Included were the bodies of the woman's first husband, Auguste Besnard, who died in 1927; his mother, who died in 1949; her second husband's mother, other relatives and two friends.

Madame Besnard was arrested and charged with murdering all 12. She denied the charges. Examinations show she is sane. But now a bombshell has exploded on the eve of her trial.

Toxicological experts, acting for her defense lawyers, say all the soil where the bodies were buried contains an abnormal 200 grams of arsenic a cubic yard. How the arsenic got there hasn't been explained yet.

Case No. 3: On July 17, the torso of a woman was found in a sack under a bridge at Cros-DuUelle, a village near the Riviera resort city of Cannes.

Police said they are convinced it was the body of 37-year-old Madame Smigly-Rydz, missing for two weeks.

For weeks police have questioned hundreds of persons to whom they've been wondering if they could solve the crime.

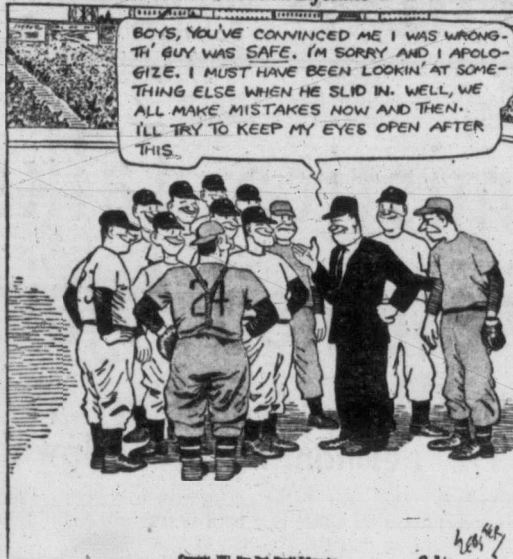

They want to send the Sons of Freedom to Adams Lake, but they won't make it Eden.

Must seem to that French lady flier that you gotta get your feet well in Canadian soil before they let you off the ground.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime BY R. T. WEBSTER

ONE WOMAN'S DAY
By NANCY HODGES

WEATHER AND WARRENS

ANY use by me of the word "weather" may look as if I am tempting providence—or else trying to rival the R.C.A.F. as a weather-maker—for my recent remarks on the drought coincided, in appearance with the first good rain we have had for months, to say nothing of a windstorm which battered the dahlias rather badly.

Incidentally, that same storm caught the robins in a mood as unaccustomed to rain as the blossoms. Like the flowers, our robins are this year's product and, as such, know little of any other weather conditions but sunshine—except for the artificial rain produced by sprinklers.

HUDDLED UNDER SHELTER

THAT'S probably why we noticed, on looking out into the garden at the height of Monday's storm, about a dozen dejected-looking robins huddled under the lawn table and chairs as if sheltering from the elements. As they were all young ones, we came to the conclusion that they were scared by the boisterous, wind-swept rain, which didn't behave at all like the gentle showers they had received in their apprenticeship under our hoses.

While on the subject of weather, I chuckled at the recent association of the name of Warren and weather as recorded in a recent news story. It seems that George of that name, who has for years been luring tourists to Vancouver Island with his claims about our climate and his paens of praise about our "little-bit-of-England-ness," has a brother who has been visiting Victoria.

THE SHINING HOUR

AND while here, that brother has been improving the shining hour by trying to lure Victorians to his home town of Santa Barbara, with his tales of that California city's climatic perfection. To that end, the visiting Warren told a Rotary Club audience that "Santa Barbara is the place where the sunshine spends the winter."

Now far be it from me to say anything derogatory about Santa Barbara—or its particular Warren, for that matter—for from what I saw of that delightful resort during my stay there a year or so ago it certainly has something that produces exotic bloom in lush abundance—whether by weather or whatnot. Furthermore, it has managed to retain its original California mission character, in the face of opposition from those who would make it into a standardized American town.

TYPICAL SPIRIT

BUT the California Warren's inability to resist the opportunity to publicize his own home town—even in the very place where his brother is head of the Publicity Bureau whose chief aim is to draw Californians up here—reminds me of an old story which typifies that spirit.

It happened at a funeral in Los Angeles—where civic pride and opportunism reaches its peak, perhaps. At the end of the service, the officiating minister enquired if there were any relatives or friends of the deceased among those gathered to pay a last tribute to his mortal remains.

FATHER'S PERORATION

WHEN there was no response, the minister thereupon said: "My friends, seeing that our departed brother leaves no one to mourn over his passing, in place of the customary eulogy, I should like to say a few words about our grand and glorious California climate."

Well, California certainly had nothing over Vancouver Island this summer when it comes to sunshine—no matter where that sunshine may go in the winter.

Complete Shutdown Monday
For Dominion-Wide Holiday

All public offices, banks, close their offices from tonight until Tuesday morning of next week. The Gyo Club has cancelled its Monday meeting in view of the holiday, it was announced.

The regular mail delivery will also be discontinued on Monday. Postmaster J. B. Sinclair said, Post office windows, however, will be open from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and the public lobby until 6 p.m.

Special delivery service and receipt and dispatch of mails will be as usual.

The Victoria Public Library will also be closed for the day. Members of the Real Estate Board of Victoria also agreed to close their offices from tonight until Tuesday morning of next week.

Race-Fixing
Suspect Held

TORONTO (CP)—Harry (Swabby) Swartz of Toronto, arrested late yesterday on two charges of conspiracy and accused of being the "Mr. Fixit" behind race fixing and jockey bribing at Fort Erie, is scheduled to appear in court today at Welland, Ont.

He was held in jail here overnight. His lawyer, Charles Dubin, said he expects Swartz will be remanded and he will apply for his release on bail.

Swartz surrendered to police after consultation with his lawyer. A warrant for his arrest was sworn about when witnesses at the continuing Ontario Racing Commission investigation named him as the mastermind of the turf swindle.

Living Cost
Drop Hope
Of MayhewPossibility Of Relief By Xmas

Hope that the government's anti-inflation measures would be so effective that the high cost of living "would not be a national issue" by Christmas was voiced to members of the Laurier Club at Monterey restaurant Thursday night by the Hon. Robert W. Mayhew, federal minister of fisheries.

"I am not a prophet," the Victoria cabinet minister declared, "but I feel there is a strong possibility Canadians may be demanding floor prices on commodities by that time, rather than worrying about living costs."

"Wool and cotton prices have dropped. Retail sales are off a bit—not enough to cause us undue worry. I believe prices will level very soon."

At the same time, Mr. Mayhew indicated that cost of living would be a lively topic of discussion at the forthcoming special session of Parliament, along with the Turgeon (transportation) and Massey (culture) reports, and old-age pensions.

TURGEON REPORT

The Turgeon report he described as "a new map of transportation for Canada which, if implemented, will affect Victoria and Vancouver Island adversely."

He noted, however, that the Victoria Chamber of Commerce studying island transportation problems, and urged that club members give them every support.

On the subject of old-age pensions, the minister felt that "over a period of years, a compulsory, contributory plan would integrate so that Canadians may provide for themselves."

"This is the most satisfactory way," Mr. Mayhew said. "We don't want to destroy the basic principle that every man should save for his own future."

SOLID FOUNDATION

Current industrial prosperity in B.C. was not really a "boom" because the province is building on a solid foundation, the speaker declared.

"Look at the men behind the organizations," Mr. Mayhew advised. "They are able products of sound Canadian homes and fine universities. Their progress shows that there are still plenty of opportunities in Canada for real men."

The Victoria member, who celebrates the fifteenth anniversary of his entry into politics next Nov. 27, said that the Dominion bill for social services in 1932-1953 would total $810,000,000, which would be paid for out of revenues accruing from Canada's industrial expansion.

HUGE FISHERIES REVENUE

The fisheries-versus-power debate could be worked out "to the satisfaction of both parties," the speaker held. So far, he said, he had found "reasonable men on both sides, willing to work out a solution."

Mr. Mayhew told the gathering that he had been working for a month on the Japanese peace treaty. He flies to San Francisco Monday morning to join Lester B. Pearson in the Canadian delegation to the peace talks. In expressing his gratification of having a few weeks at home, Mr. Mayhew said: "It's good to pick up the evening paper and see that Mrs. Noggins is back—it wouldn't seem like Victoria without her. I notice that she has a friend now (Horace Z. Sniffin), and I trust she is in good company."

Head table guests at the dinner included ex-premier T. Duff Pattullo and John Hart; Cabinet Ministers E. T. Kenney, W. T. Straith and Douglas Turnbull, and Mayor Percy George. Dr. J. M. Ewing of Victoria College presided.

After the dinner, Mr. Mayhew was presented with an allegorical painting, based on his Colombo Plan work, by club member W. S. Harrison.

Very Rev. G. R. Calvert, Dean of Columbia, officiated. Born in London, Rev. Hipp was a church organist before going to Australia where he was ordained an Anglican clergyman. Before retiring here he had a church in Vancouver for several years.

He is survived by a son, Rev. T. L. Hipp, Vancouver, and a daughter, Mrs. Phyllis Hoskin, in England.

Russians Rent Mansion
But Neighbors Coolish

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (UP)—Residents of this exclusive San Francisco suburb were agast today on learning that they will have two score Russians as their neighbors during the Japanese Peace Conference.

"No, no, I don't want them here," exclaimed Mrs. Jerry Friedman, who lives in the only house on a side road leading to the $1,600,000 estate the Russians have rented.

"Isn't there anything we can do about it?" she asked. For a reported rental of $250 a day, the Russians took over "Uplands," the lavish home built in 1917 by the late Templeton Crocker, grandson of one of the founders of the Southern Pacific Railroad. It is now owned by Mrs. Romie C. Jacks, widow of a Monterey, Calif., cheese, cattle and land baron.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Secretary Andrei Gromyko and 40 aides attending the conference are due to move into the secluded mansion Saturday.

The Russians will loiter around in 38 rooms on furniture in the style of Louis XV and XVI, finger rare volumes in a $250,000 Tudor-Gothic library, and stroll along descending terraces to a formal park.

They can also bathe in a bathtub carved out of solid marble and watch the water pour into it from a lion's mouth carved into the polished surface.

Lying in their beds, they will gaze on chandeliers made of semi-precious stones and admire the elegant designs painted on the ceilings by European artists.

A huge reception room, known as the court room, is covered with a 200-year-old Oriental cathedral rug.

Estimated cost of $845,000 for a new Point Ellice bridge would probably run up to "something like $1,000,000 if a bridge is built," Alderman Percy Scurreh told the affairs group of the chamber of commerce at a meeting Thursday afternoon.

In recommending that the present bridge be repaired at a cost of $100,000 to $200,000, Ald. Scurreh said the bridge probably will not have to carry much more than the current traffic load for a considerable time.

Weather Synopsis

VICTORIA'S SUNSHINE TO DATE, 1951-2,047.4 HOURS
SYNOPSIS: The storm centre which caused yesterday's widespread rains has moved into northwestern Saskatchewan and the rain today will be confined to a few light showers in Alberta.

An area extending from southwestern Alberta through the Coronation and Lloydminster regions to northwestern Saskatchewan received the heaviest falls. Over an inch fell at Calgary, Vermilion and Cowley, in the 24 hours up to 5.30 a.m. Friday, with all stations in the area reporting over half an inch.

Tomorrow will give the sudden Prairies a chance to dry. No rain is expected and afternoon temperatures will be near 60.

The Peace River region escaped the rain and will be warm and sunny today and Saturday.

REGIONAL FORECASTS VALID UNTIL MIDNIGHT SATURDAY

VICTORIA: Cloudy this morning, sunny this afternoon. A light shower or rain tonight and Saturday. Little change in temperature. Wind: southwest 20 today and tomorrow afternoon, otherwise light. Low tonight and high Saturday, 48 and 58.

VANCOUVER AND GEORGIA STRAIT: Cloudy, clearing by noon. A few clouds tonight and Saturday. Little rain or drizzle. Wind: southwest 20 today and tomorrow afternoon, otherwise light. Low tonight and high Saturday, 48 and 58.

WEST COAST: Extensive banks fog and low cloud along shore during the morning, clearing during the afternoon and moving offshore again at night. Mostly clear at higher levels. Little change in temperature. Light winds. Low tonight and high Saturday, 48 and 60.

The Cold Blur

THE THINKING OF THE AMERICAN people is perhaps the most important political fact of our times and a fact very difficult to isolate. Two publications, MacLean's Magazine and Time, have tried lately to measure the thinking of the American people about Canada. The results are both discouraging and encouraging—discouraging because the American people hardly think at all of Canada, encouraging because, in their ignorance of Canada, the American people regard us vaguely as the best neighbor and surest friend in the world.

Time's survey of the American mind began with a survey of the Canadian mind. It asked a cross-section of Canadians to set down what they considered the most important facts of Canadian life which the Americans should understand.

Among the facts generally mentioned were: That Canada is the United States' best customer; that it has received no economic aid of any sort from the United States but pays cash for everything; that Americans have more money invested here than in any foreign country; that, unlike the United States, Canada is balancing its budget; that Canada is, in area, the third largest country in the world. And so on.

Time took these facts to the New York Chamber of Commerce, a group of leading business men who should know something about their largest foreign customer. Examined on this information, the American business men generally flunked. What is to be expected, then, from the American people at large?

John Clare, managing editor of MacLean's, sought an answer to that question by moving about the United States for two months and talking to countless Americans. The conclusion was the same—the Americans all thought highly of Canada, were inclined to exaggerate our virtues and overlook our faults, but our country was as mysterious to them as the interior of Tibet. To the typical American Canada is just a cold blur close to the North Pole, somehow ruled from London, Canadians a fine, virile race which manages to get around somehow while frozen stiff most of the year.

These investigations seem to confirm what Canadians have always suspected—that as a people we are little understood, even by those living nearest to us. This, perhaps, is not surprising since we hardly understand ourselves yet and are now busy, through the Massey Commission and otherwise, with the task of self-recognition.

We are a neighborly blur to the Americans precisely because we are good neighbors and make no trouble for the folks next door. Argentina, for example, is far more on the mind of the United States than Canada because those noble democrats, the Perons, are always making trouble. And because he also is making trouble, Franco, dictator of a minor European country, is known to millions of Americans who have never heard of Louis St. Laurent.

Revolution in a banana republic of South America is big news in the American press. The overnight development of Canada into one of the world's leading industrial powers cannot be told in a headline. Canada's growth is one of the largest current news stories, but why should we expect the Americans to read it when we have hardly grasped it ourselves? And if Mr. Pearson occasionally speaks out as a Canadian it is no wonder the Americans, if they happen to be listening are astonished when many of us are a little shocked at his temerity.

All this will pass in good time. The Canadian blur will come into focus in the American eye. Meanwhile, like the Americans, we should rejoice at having beside us the best neighbor in the world. But because they like us we need not imagine that the Americans understand us. Understanding among foreigners will come only when we learn to understand ourselves and present a clear image in our own eyes.

Britain Can Still Take It

THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT IS showing high courage in sticking to its rearmament program against the left-wing revolt of the Bevanites.

In this issue Mr. Attlee is putting the welfare of the nation far above the safety of his government. If Mr. Bevan persists in his rebellion against the cost of defence the Labor party may be fatally split, the government destroyed at the next election, but defence is going forward as planned. Beside that the fate of governments and parties is a minor consideration.

However, while maintaining its defence policy in terms of production the government has failed so far to maintain it in terms of economics, as proved by the present large and growing foreign trade deficit.

The cruel drain of rearmament can be paid for in Britain only by a reduction in the amount of goods available to the consumer, by a fall in the standard of living. There is no other way in a country which cannot quickly increase its total production and must divert part of its available supplies from butter to guns.

The government, though courageously forecasting even higher taxes, has laid down no clear plan by which the total consumption of goods in Britain will be reduced to make way for the diversion into guns. Perhaps it intends to get through an election before these disagreeable necessities have to be fully faced.

Meanwhile the voters are being distracted from these central facts, from the troubles of the nationalized industries, from the general failure of socialism by a frenzied new attack on the evils of capitalism. This sounds like an early election.

In these developments there is no reason for any criticism of the British people from this side of the water. On the contrary, when the British people are preparing for a harsher dose of austerity after twelve years of hardship, we should be asking ourselves whether we are showing equal courage and resolution. Up to now the answer must be in the negative.

The British, with a living standard far lower than ours, accept the prospect of a further cut without a quiver. On this continent we still seem to imagine that we can have full defence without any sacrifice at all. The attempt to do the impossible is expressed by the thing we call inflation.

Russian Nose, Western Face

FEW CANADIANS WILL quarrel with the federal government's decision to enforce tighter controls on trade with Russia. If the free world is to embargo the shipment of strategic materials to Russia and its armed satellites Canada undoubtedly will play its part in this economic quarantine. But "strategic materials" are big words and indefinite. How far should the definition go?

A large part of the United States Congress seems to think it should go the whole way, that no goods at all should be traded with the Russian empire. Legislation now before Congress would deny American economic aid to any country which does virtually any business with the Russians. But Britain and western European nations insist that they cannot possibly abandon this business because it is essential to their economic life.

A distinguished American editor, David Lawrence, denounces Britain for trading with the enemy and proposes that the United States make this unnecessary by providing the necessary materials and dollars as an outright gift or loan.

That would be costly but logical. But the United States Congress is doing no such thing. It is busy whitening the foreign economic aid program proposed by the President. It is thus worsening the position of Britain and Europe and making them more than ever dependent upon non-dollar and partially upon Russian goods.

In the chaotic world of these times such issues as trade with Russia cannot be settled by some clear-cut formula. There will have to be tolerance and compromise within the family of the free nations. By total embargo no doubt we can cut off the Russian nose, but it may be our own face we are spiting.

Dr. W. A. Carrothers

THE TRIBUTES OF MEN HIGH IN public life have emphasized the service rendered to this province by the late Dr. W. A. Carrothers, head since its inception of the B.C. Public Utilities Commission. They come as reminders of the abilities and energies he devoted to the country of his adoption in the field of economic analysis and planning, and they establish a measure of the man who was known to friends, here and elsewhere, as that genial personality they called "Pat."

As chairman of the provincial government's economic council, his studies led to the assessment of British Columbia's wealth and potentialities in relation to the rest of the world. His advice to ministers and departments provided a clearer understanding of the province's future.

In the other positions, following his work on the economic council, he maintained a reputation for patience, conscientious effort and fair-dealing. Yet it may be less for the efficient way in which he discharged his duties than for the personality of the man that he will be remembered. British Columbia has lost a fine public servant. A host of acquaintances have lost a warm-hearted friend.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

SITTING beside the lake today, my neighbor Mr. Horace Snifkin, fell into conversation, as is his habit, with a large brown frog. When asked what he was doing in these parts, the frog replied—this was pure sarcasm, of course—that he had read in the paper that the mayor of Magog had recently taken a jump in the lake for publicity purposes and the frog was just following this excellent example.

This seemed to Mr. Snifkin a rather pointless remark and he told the frog as much. Yes, said the frog, but you have missed the whole point because, unfortunately, you are a man and cannot be expected to understand such matters.

THE point, said the frog, is that the mayor of Magog was not equipped to jump into any lake, lacked the necessary shape, breathing apparatus and, indeed, couldn't even swim. Whereas even the most ignorant frog can jump safely into any lake. Rather nettled, Mr. Snifkin said: "So what?"

Well, said the frog (he was a very patient and tolerant old frog of long experience with human folly) the incident of the mayor of Magog merely shows where evolution went wrong in the case of men. With a little more intelligence, he said, men might have evolved into frogs but somewhere along the line they slipped and became men.

THAT was a great pity, said the frog, but couldn't be helped now. He doubted that men had the intelligence to start over again and evolve into anything better. As a result, he added, good-naturedly, men cannot even swim for, of course, their occasional floundering in the water after a parachute leap into Lake Memphramagog cannot be called swimming, not by frog standards anyway.

Through another evolutionary mistake man's blood temperature was raised too high so that he cannot endure the natural temperature of water and is, therefore, confined to the few islands of earth which linger here and there on the surface of the world. Its greater part, teeming with life and wonders of all sorts, is forever hidden from man.

In short, he lacks the intelligence to make himself amphibious like the higher animals.

IF YOU will excuse me mentioning it, said the frog, a man cannot even croak in the spring and must resort to meaningless sounds which he calls language, thus laboriously communicating his thoughts to his fellows, whereas every frog instantly understands every other frog with one effortless monosyllable.

Fortunately, the frog admitted, man's ears have been so constructed that he is unable to perceive the hideous dissonance of his throaty sounds, but to the fine hearing mechanism of a frog they are pretty hard to bear. Even your few remarks here, the frog told Mr. Snifkin, with no offense intended, are revolting to a higher creature, but let it pass.

IT IS extraordinary, he went on thoughtfully, how man has presumed in his ignorance to distort the whole evolutionary process, to rationalize his own failure and to disguise his inferiority complex. For behold man, a minor product of evolution, an inferior offshoot of the general life work, a pitiful minority among living things, has now undertaken to destroy with atomic energy the little progress he has made.

That, said the frog with genuine regret, will be a pity but will make little difference to the vast majority. Assuredly, it will not affect frogs. And, he intimated, if I may be brutally frank, we frogs will be much more comfortable when we don't have to listen to your raucous sounds which you call language and when mayors cease jumping clumsily into lakes and making a humiliating spectacle of themselves.

BUT there is something still more amusing in man's attempt to explain evolution for his own feeble purposes, said the frog. Man, he noted, assumes that evolution proceeded blindly, without plan or direction, as if any process so chaotic and chaotic could produce the final triumph of a frog!

You may have read, the frog pointed out, that certain moths (a fairly intelligent species) have so colored their wings that, in their sleeping posture, they look like owls and no birds will dare to attack them. Certain superior insects have disguised themselves as thorns on a rose bush so that enemies leave them alone. Others are perfectly camouflaged as sticks.

Do you suppose, asked the frog, that this was done by accident? Surely even a man may guess that a frog, perfectly designed for land or water, comfortable in all weathers, safe against even atom bombs, was not developed without meticulous planning. Just because the world was wrong and descended the evolutionary scale to his present state while frogs evolved upwards, he should not imagine that other creatures made the same fatal error.

I TELL you, said the frog, it took a lot of thought and labor to produce us. But I dare say it is too late now to do anything about you. Still, you might make one last try before the bombs fall and, in a billion years or so, you might manage to achieve frogdom.

And now, if you will excuse me, said the frog, I am getting a little bored and if you watch me I shall now demonstrate to the unfortunate mayor of Magog how to jump into a lake. Which he did. Mr. Snifkin put on his bathing suit and followed but, as he admits, his was an awkward performance.

Floored Windsor Star

Eskimos in Alaska were offered loans to put proper floors in their igloos, to avoid the springtime mud. But it was stipulated both husband and wife had to sign for the loan, and the Eskimo men objected. It made the women too important and they began interfering in the prerogatives of men. As usual, the wrongs of equal rights, the women had their way and got their floors. We hope this won't lead to too many disputes in igloos where harmony previously prevailed, just because the women get uppity.

EXPRESS COMMENDATION!

May we, through your columns, commend Forest Ranger J. P. Greenhouse, Assistant Ranger J. E. Henderson and their crews of fire fighters for their efficiency in controlling the East Sooke fire, and also the employees of the B.C. Telephone Co. and B.C. Electric for their efforts in keeping their respective services in operation. We wish to thank them and Constable Matheson of the R.C.M.P. at Sooke for the courtesy and consideration shown the guests at Glenairley Resort.

A MESSAGE FOR LABOR DAY

We are often reminded that the whole world is in confusion today, and should the threatened third world war develop the result may well become "confusion worse confounded."

One example of this confusion is the constant strife, bickering and strikes which characterize industrial life in which capital, labor and consumer are continually engaged.

Believing as we do in the universal brotherhood of God and the universal brotherhood of man we believe there is one and only one solution for this and all other current problems which concern us all viz. the application of the principles which Jesus proclaimed, which He exemplified in His life, and for which He died.

The churches have the dynamite for the task and the near approach of Labor Day gives the opportunity. We trust that every pastor in Victoria may take occasion to proclaim the attitude of his church on this vital problem, and that capital, labor and consumer may be all assured of a cordial welcome in every church in the city.

H. McCONNELL,
1101 Hillside Avenue.

THANK YOU, VICTORIA

As a visitor to your beautiful city I would like, through the medium of your columns, to express my gratitude and thanks to the press, radio stations, local S.P.C.A. and the wonderful people who were so kind in helping me to locate my lost cat. Such friendly people and such a lovely city make one wish to stay longer. There is, I believe, another white cat missing and I only hope that these people will have the same good luck and kindly co-operation in finding their lost pet as I had. Thanks again.

Shade Drawn On Buttle Lake

IT IS remarkable to record that as long ago as April 23, 1951, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, on the recommendation of the B.C. Power Commission, passed an Order in Council authorizing the Power Commission to store water in Buttle Lake.

This Order has never been published in the B.C. Gazette. All sorts of trivial regulations are faithfully published in the Gazette; but when it comes to a matter of real importance that concerns us all—the Order is suppressed. The law to be just must be published.

Until the public inquiry opened, the defenders of Strathcona Park were unaware that the Provincial Government had already committed itself, without even consulting the Legislature.

Most of the legislature of 1911 who enacted the Strathcona Park Act are not alive to defend their cause today. If they were, they would probably blush with shame and indignation at the way their thoughtful provision for us and future generations has been overridden by an agency of the Government.

Under Our Roof

By JOHN RHODES STURDY

DEAR SIR (Hamish wrote, still from Vancouver) Col. S. Skeffington-Smuts (Ret.) has returned from his cougar-hunting expedition in North Vancouver with nothing to show for it except a couple of wasp bites, and consequently he has given up his idea of opening a cougar burger stand at the Pacific National Exhibition. This leaves us in very dire straits, indeed; what with Little Augie in jail for trying to raffle off the Lion's Gate Bridge and Anastasia Wiggs in a rest home, suffering from loss of memory. This is a very unfortunate circumstance, because Anastasia has stopped giving the Colonel his weekly allowance. She doesn't remember meeting him at all, and we've been depending on her to get us to your island.

Later, The Colonel came up with an idea today. Hamish, he said, if we could only get Anastasia out of that rest home, everything would be solved. I don't see that, I said. She still would be suffering from loss of memory. How did she lose her memory? the Colonel asked.

You know very well how she lost it, I said. She fell on her head. That's it, said the Colonel, walking to the window of our hotel room and looking down at the street. And if she fell on her head again, she might get back her memory. It's a recognized fact that a second shock sometimes cures amnesia.

I could see what he meant so I said: It is also a recognized fact that if you fall on your head out of a twelve-story hotel window you don't have to worry about a little thing like memory.

That's true, the Colonel said sagely. It can't be as drastic as that. Just a little bump, perhaps. Just enough to jar her.

He sat down for a long time and thought. And once he said: I could give her a crack with the flat of my sabre. But I dissuaded him from that idea because when the Colonel starts swinging his sabre he keeps his eyes closed and doesn't know the flat side from the edge, and a headless Anastasia would be no use to us whatsoever.

It was then that he noticed the tray and all the silver dishes and things that room service had left from lunch, and he sent me down to the porter's desk to get a length of rope.

Now, this is the idea, Hamish, he said. I'll attach this heavy tray and this silver to the end of the rope and rig it up over the transom. And when you bring Anastasia back and she opens the door and walks in, I'll let go of the other end of the rope and—bang!

Well, I left him to fix up his contraption and I went to the rest home, wondering how I would manage to kidnap Anastasia, and much to my surprise, there she was, standing at the front door, and she cried: Why, hello, Hamish! And I said, Are you cured? And she said, Certainly, I remember everything. How is Stacy? Stacy being the Colonel's first name.

Well, I was terribly relieved about it, and we rode back to the hotel in a taxi, naturally, and when we reached the Colonel's room I shouted a warning through the door.

Everything's all right, Colonel, I yelled. Anastasia has got back her memory.

There was no answer, so cautiously I opened the door. Lying under a pile of silver dishes and things was the Colonel. As we entered he raised his head slowly and looked at us with groggy eyes.

"Who are you people?" he demanded blankly.

The doctors say it is just a matter of time. Yrs. Hamish.

U.S. Nerves on Edge Over Korea Future

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP
From Washington

ANXIETY about the future in Korea is bringing on a bad attack of nerves in the government. As recently reported in this space, the American policy-makers have little hope of a Korean cease-fire until after the San Francisco conference on the Japanese peace treaty. But the question now being asked is whether, even after San Francisco, a cease-fire can be arranged.

We shall not buy a Korean truce by abandoning the project for a Japanese treaty. We shall not yield to the new Soviet blackmail. Will the masters of the Kremlin then order the cease-fire talks to be renewed in earnest, or will they order a renewal of the war?

The most careful inquiries reveal a wide but depressing range of official and expert opinion on this crucial point. To begin at the dark end of the spectrum, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway has lately sent the opinion from Tokyo that the whole cease-fire project was probably a blind from the start, and that we must now be prepared for an eventual full scale renewal of the Korean fighting. A middle group here merely states that the odds against a final cease-fire are heavy, and are increasing. And the comparative optimists call it "still an even bet."

LOOK TO FUTURE
Since this is the present range of official and expert opinion, it is certainly time to think about what will happen if the tragedy of Kaesong suddenly merges into a new Communist offensive—which may, indeed, happen tomorrow.

On the one hand, the long lull of the cease-fire talks has benefited the enemy far more than most people realize. Quantities of new heavy equipment, including considerable artillery and about 600 tanks, have been brought into the war zone. The depleted Chinese and North Korean units have been filled up, so that the enemy is now estimated to have about 500,000 men in Korea, with 400,000 in striking positions between the 39th parallel and the front. The build-up of air strength, which had reached 1,000 planes in Manchuria two months ago, has continued slowly.

Above all, every kind of supply dump has been piled up. Therefore, instead of being able to sustain an attack for only a few days, the Chinese and North Koreans are now considered able to continue on the offensive for a much longer period. It is even calculated that every added day of lull, in which the enemy's supply dumps are not depleted by heavy fighting, adds another day to the period during which an offensive effort can be maintained in the future.

Thus the enemy in Korea is much stronger now than he was. On the other hand, so are we. Our forces, dug in at Chorwon and Kumwha, occupy incomparably the best defensive position they have ever held in Korea. They have had time to strengthen their hold on the Iron Triangle by every device of the military art, so that they can be sure of taking a fearful toll of the attacking enemy.

For the first time, they have their full complement of weapons and equipment of all kinds. And for the first time, the divisions and regiments are more than up to strength, with substantial reserves of manpower.

SOBER CONFIDENCE

Balancing the enemy's gains of strength against our gains, the authorities here now share the same sober confidence in our forces' power to hurl back a Communist offensive that has already been expressed by Gen. Ridgway and Gen. Van Fleet. There is only one point of immediate concern. Since the U.N. armies in Korea have had no real seasoning experience with hostile air, severe temporary setbacks may ensue if the enemy brings his full air strength into the battle.

This single point of immediate concern in turn symbolizes the very deep and anxious concern that is universally felt about the long range results of a serious renewal of the Korean fighting. For if the enemy air enters the battle, the question of retaliatory air attacks on the enemy bases in Manchuria will be inescapably raised at once. And even if the fighting follows the old pattern, the letdown and deception of the false cease-fire negotiation will still give place to the strongest pressures to widen the war. In short, if it begins again all-out, the Korean war can hardly go on forever as a limited war. It must some day burst its precarious bounds, and become a much larger and more terrible conflagration.

PERILOUS LEDGE

These grim truths are of course the best arguments for optimism about an eventual cease-fire agreement. If the enemy both understands these truths and does not want a wider war, he too must desire a final cease-fire in Korea. But these same truths also indicate the peril of the present moment. We are traveling a narrow ledge, skirting a clangorous abyss, and we had better realize that this is our situation, in order to avoid missteps.

Nameless Women

Ottawa Citizen

In the Western world, age is a personal fact that many women reveal only reluctantly even for official records. In India, compilers of electoral rolls for the forthcoming general elections have found a widespread reluctance among women to reveal their names. Millions have flatly refused the information. It seems that traditionally the Indian woman has no independent identity; she is known as the wife of her husband or the daughter of her father.

Mr. Sakumar Sen, the election commissioner, describes this attitude as "a curious, senseless relic of the past."

He thinks that women degrade themselves by refusing to assert an independence in their own right. His problem illustrates the common phenomenon of outdated social prejudice blocking the way to better human relations. In the West, the franchise for women seemed an outrageous idea to most people not long ago and some countries have not yet adopted it.

Trend To Urban Living Cuts Quebec Birthrate

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec's phenomenal industrial growth in 10 years may result in a decrease of its traditionally-high birthrate.

Quebec Statistics Bureau says this in the latest edition of its year book drawing attention to the fact that 80 years ago two-thirds of the province's population was rural and today, more than two-thirds of Quebec's people are urban.

The Quebec Government by loans and programs to make farm life easier is trying to maintain the interest of rural folk in agriculture and stem the march toward the city.

The Roman Catholic Church has turned its full attention to the problems involved in raising large families in the city. It encourages the movement of settlers to new lands in northwestern Quebec.

The Bureau notes in its population analysis that the largest families are still found in rural localities and the highest percentage of childless marriages occur in cities. It says its study shows that Quebec has maintained an astoundingly high birthrate despite the urban character its population has taken on.

But, it says, "even if it is still high... before long, the birthrate will decline in this province as elsewhere."

Quebec already has lost to New Brunswick its record of having the highest rate of natural increase among the Canadian provinces.

HOME GARDEN

by Hilda Beasall

Onions in the home garden are now receiving attention.

It seems that they have not been behaving themselves this season. In some instances they have developed "bulges," while many gardeners are reporting "bull necks." Although a percentage of home garden crops show these traits every year, the incidence is more widespread than usual and has resulted in many enquiries.

To the uninitiated grower this year's stumbling block has been the prolonged dry spell. Onions are not only heavy feeders, they also require a constant and steady supply of moisture, and this is something which has been difficult to maintain.

Onions are true bulbs, being formed of scales the same as tulips, although in the kitchen the scales are more often referred to as skins. When the onion bed becomes dry, the outer scales harden and some (or all) of the roots die. If moisture is provided under these conditions new roots are formed and the growing continues, but the hard outer scales are unable to expand.

One of two things must then happen. Either the outer scales, rupture and a "bulge" is formed, or, if the scales are too hard to break, growth extends into the neck of the bulb forming the "bull neck."

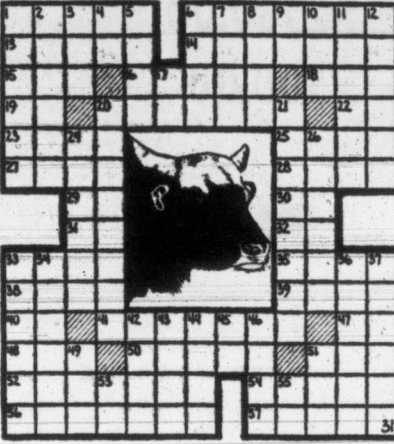

Either condition produces bulbs which are low in keeping qualities, and therefore should not be mixed with those intended for use after Christmas.

As this is being written we are enjoying our first heavy rain since May 24, and while it will do a lot of good, it is the worst thing for a ripening onion crop. To prevent new growth it would be wise to dig all bulbs which are of good size and let them lay on the soil to ripen, turning them every day, or placing boards beneath them.

(With the start of the fall season, the Beasalls' garden column will be published Tuesdays and Fridays only each week.)

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Sunbear Scatters Gotham Strollers

NEW YORK (AP)—A nonchalant but hefty little sunbear took a stroll in lower Manhattan yesterday. New Yorkers thereabouts took to higher ground.

The sunbear is a small southern Asiatic species reported to be one of the world's most easily-tamed animals, but the citizen didn't try to find out about it. The sunbear, weighing 100 pounds, was in a cage being unloaded with other animals at a bird and animal company. On his way from the firm's animal farm in Accomac, Va., he had apparently nibbled at the wooden floor of his cage.

As workmen lifted it from the truck, out dropped the sunbear. Citizens scattered.

The sunbear wandered into an adjacent florist shop. A clerk disappeared up a flight of stairs. The sunbear nosed around a bit, damaging about $50 worth of shrubs and wandered into a rear yard.

Then employees of the pet company showed up.

as ANY other leading washday suds!

SCIENTIFIC TESTS PROVE IT!

SURF is twice as effective in removing "dirty clothes" odors. It gets out every trace.
SURF gets out more dirt, even greasy, "invisible" dirt that other suds leave.
SURF is 7 times as effective against germs. Makes clothes germ resistant.

YOU CAN TELL BY THE SMELL
Just sniff the fresh-air-sweetness of Surf-clean clothes! New Surf gets clothes sweeter than ever because it gets them cleaner than ever. Surf-clean clothes smell fresh-air-sweet even if dried indoors.

New Surf takes out hidden dirt that other suds leave—is twice as effective in removing odour. Gets clothes whiter, brighter, sweeter than ever before.

New Surf—at your grocer's now in a brand-new box—is better than ever. Gets clothes so much cleaner than other suds you can actually smell the difference!

"Lab" tests tell Surf's secret

Surf contains a wonderful detergent. Laboratory tests show it gets out hidden dirt, grease and germs that other suds leave in your clothes... that it's twice as effective in removing "dirty clothes" odour—takes out every trace. Gets clothes so clean you don't even need to rinse. (If you prefer to rinse, see the work saving tip at right.)

So gentle, too—easy on hands

Surf floats out even the deep-down dirt so very gently it's safe for everything you wash. Use it for everything from the heaviest, grimeiest work-clothes to your best party finery!

Try Surf, next washday. Hang up a wash that's not just whiter and brighter to the eye, but sweet-smelling clean as a spring breeze. If it's Surf-clean, it's really clean!

NO OTHER SUDS GETS CLOTHES WHITER, BRIGHTER OR AS FRESH-AIR-SWEET!

HE SAVED CUSTOMERS THE TROUBLE

DETROIT (UP)—Frank J. Kulinski, 61, a bartender in suburban Wayne, Mich., awaited sentence today on a charge of diluting 56 bottles of whisky with two shots of ginger ale apiece.

Kulinski, who pleaded guilty, said he "cut" the whisky because "I saw folks ordering ginger ale with their whisky so I decided to add the ginger ale before-hand."

Tierney To Appeal 90-Day Sentence

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Film tough guy Lawrence Tierney said he would go to the appellate court today "and further if necessary" seeking a new trial on his conviction for kicking a college student in the face.

Tierney, whose escapades have kept his name in print since he rose to fame by playing gangster John Dillinger on the screen, was sentenced yesterday to 90 days in jail for kicking student John Naylor during an early morning brawl.

CLASSROOM POPULATION UP

Record Number Teachers Employed

This year the Greater Victoria School Board will employ a record number of 424 teachers to instruct an estimated enrolment of some 12,000 pupils, according to J. F. K. English, senior municipal inspector of schools.

Junior and senior high schools require 166 teachers. Of this number, 154 are listed as permanent staff, seven temporary, two part-time teachers and three returning from leave of absence.

Eighteen of them are new appointments. The inspector listed 257 teachers on the staffs of the elementary schools. Of this number, 232 are permanent appointments, 20 temporary, two part-time and four returning from leave of absence. Forty-two are new appointments.

The staff of approximately 424 teachers does not include about 12 people engaged as supervisors and special teachers, Mr. English said.

Helping to accommodate the increased school population will be the newly-constructed five-room

Cadboro Bay Elementary School. The school will take more than 90 pupils.

Alterations and addition to the Strawberry Vale School will provide for another 90 pupils along with the 100 already accommodated.

Bury R. Walker In Home Town

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Screen star Robert Walker, who died at the peak of success after a life scarred by heartbreak and loneliness, will be buried in the Utah town he left to seek the bright lights.

The 32-year-old actor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Walker, canceled their plans for an elaborate Hollywood funeral for their son and announced they would "take him with us to Ogden, Utah," where he was reared.

The Walkers and the actor's first wife, screen star Jennifer Jones, arrived here the day after he died of a respiratory ailment at his home Tuesday night.

The grief-stricken parents at first announced their son would be buried beside other once-great screen luminaries at Forest Lawn cemetery in nearby Glendale.

But they changed their minds yesterday and said Walker, the reformed "bad boy" of Hollywood, should be laid to rest at the town his restlessness forced him to leave while still a school boy.

If the fish won't bite

Here's an idea for those days when you feel like going down to deal with the fish personally.

Intrepid souls who, with spear in hand and web on foot, chase fish in southern waters, can now increase their range with aluminum harpoon-guns.

Aluminum is used because it is light and does not rust. These are the main reasons why this metal is so popular, and why Alcan is busy with projects which are planned to increase Canada's production to 500,000 tons a year. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Record Number Visitors Expected For Labor Day

Victoria transportation and hotel officials are preparing for record-shattering crowds on the Labor Day weekend.

The addition of 14 flights by T.C.A. in and out of Patricia Bay airport today marks the start of the rush.

Wallace Courtney, T.C.A. manager here, said the regular Friday schedule of 12 flights to and from Vancouver was increased to 18; and the three daily flights to and from Seattle increased to four.

On normal Friday traffic the company handles a total of 30 flights in and out of the airport, and today there are 43.

WILL HAVE TO HUNT

Late-comers to Victoria over the holiday week-end may have to hunt for accommodation as many hotels reported "packed solid" with reservations. A few said they expected to have "some rooms available."

There will be no extra trains scheduled by the E. & N. al-

Ed Kelter Named Regional Leader

Ed Kelter, who has been Victoria's Pro-Rec chief instructor for the physical education and recreation branch, Department of Education, since 1947, has been appointed regional supervisor of recreation for Vancouver Island.

It was made known today. He will continue to operate from headquarters at 548 Bastion Street here, but will now be available to work in co-operation with all recreational groups on Vancouver Island. The Pro-Rec centres in Victoria continue under his direction as formerly.

The first aluminum plant in Canada was founded at Niagara Falls in 1895.

WEEK-END POWELL RIVER CRUISE FOR LOCAL NAVY RESERVISTS

Crew of H.M.C.S. Malahat, Victoria's R.C.N. reserve division, will observe the Labor Day week-end with a cruise to Powell River aboard the Sault Ste. Marie, in company with M.L. 125 from H.M.C.S. Discovery, Vancouver.

The ship will leave Esquimalt Saturday at 7.30 p.m. After a week-end of training and a stopover in Powell River, to include a tour of the pulp and paper plant, the "Soo" will return to Victoria Monday at 4.30 p.m.

Threatened Greyhound Bus Line Strike Is Averted

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—A threatened strike that would have tied up Pacific Greyhound Lines in seven western states has been averted and the expected 100,000 Labor Day holiday passengers will travel as planned.

The company and the A.F.L. Amalgamated Association of Motor Coach Employees, negotiating with the aid of Federal Conciliators V. Wayne Kenaston and Arthur C. Viat, agreed on a compromise just five hours before the strike deadline at midnight last night.

Under terms of the compromise, the union was recognized as bargaining agent for the 350 Greyhound office workers. Management representatives had expressed willingness to recognize the union's jurisdiction over all but 18 managerial positions among the office workers.

A company spokesman said the agreement resulted from "a compromise within that figure." The union said 85 exclusions were claimed by the company and that the union cut them by 50 per cent in the compromise.

The union indicated the settlement will permit it to go ahead with plans to seek additional union members in such key company centres as Los Angeles, Portland and Phoenix, Ariz.

Prince "buys" Times from vendor Metcalfe . . .

. . . delivers to mistress.

NOSE FOR NEWS

Dog Carries Times Daily For Mistress

Prince, a border collie owned by Mrs. Truth Campbell, 459 Belleville Street, has a nose for news . . .

The dog can be seen daily carrying a copy of the final edition of the Victoria Daily Times from the wheel-chair "stand" of a vendor at Government and Belleville Streets to the home of his mistress.

The performance, which has been going on for the past 14 months, was witnessed by a reporter Thursday from start to finish.

At the hour the Times reaches news vendor Leonard Metcalfe at the Causeway, Prince jogged to his mistress with a whine and a wag of his tail.

TIMES' TIME

"He's telling me it's Times' time," said Mrs. Campbell, as she gave the order:

"All right, Prince, go and get it."

The canny canine was away at a run for Metcalfe's stand, passing the C.P.R. depot and down the long block in front of the Parliament Buildings to the busy corner of Government Street.

"Here's my pal," grinned Metcalfe as the dog threaded his way through the pedestrians.

GOOD MANNERS

Showing good manners, Prince waited patiently while the vendor served another customer, and then stepped forward.

Metcalfe folded him a copy of the Times and, with tail wagging, Prince started back with paper in mouth.

There was no dawdling en route. Prince was back at his home with the paper in good condition minutes later.

"He never fails us," said Mrs. Campbell as she gave "man's best" a pat on the head.

"He gets the Times for us rain or shine," said the proud owner of "the best-informed dog in the world."

BEDTIME STORY

by Thornton W. Burgess

Each day you'll find with danger fraught
The careless in the end are caught.
—Old Mother Nature.

Confidence is a good thing to have, but over-confidence is as bad as lack of confidence. It leads to carelessness. It was just so with Little Stripes, the small son of Striped Chipmunk. He thought himself very smart and quite able to take care of himself no matter what might happen.

It was only a few days since Little Stripes had wandered away from home, but already he had the feeling that he knew all there was to know about the Great World. He had discovered that there was plenty to eat if he used his eyes. He had found a snug place in which to sleep in a hollow log.

Now while this old log was in the green forest, it was only a little way in. Black Pussy the Cat had often visited that old log looking for a mouse. He had caught more than one there. Little Stripes had been there several days undisturbed, so he had become careless. He forgot to look first before leaving the safety of the old log.

Now it happened this morning that Black Pussy took a notion to go hunting in the green forest. He didn't hurry. Between steps he paused to look and listen. So little by little he drew nearer to the old log. Presently he was in sight of it. Then he was more careful than ever. He could see the hole in the end. More than once he had caught a careless mouse coming out through that small hole. He stole nearer and nearer to it. Then he crouched and for a while kept perfectly still, his eyes fixed on that hole. He was just about to go over and smell at it to see if anybody was living there when a little chipmunk poked his head out and almost immediately came out.

Black Pussy made ready to spring. Little Stripes seemed to be coming right to him. Then he turned and ran off a little way. Black Pussy was patient. Little Stripes came his way once more. There was a sudden leap. There was a sharp squeal. Little Stripes was caught and all because of his own carelessness.

WAS UPSET, CONSTIPATED BUT NOW FEELING FINE!

"I was constipated for several months. Then I started to take ALL-BRAN regularly every day. Result: no more constipation—I feel fine now!" says André Beauchêne, 1449 Rue Galt, Côte St. Paul, Montreal. Yes, another unolicited letter from a satisfied ALL-BRAN user.

If you, too, suffer from constipation due to lack of dietary bulk, eat an ounce (about 1/4 cup) of crisp delicious Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily, and drink plenty of water! If not completely satisfied after 10 days, send empty carton to Kellogg's, London, Ont. GET DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

NO FAITH HEALERS IN IRISH PLAYOFF PLANS

In spite of the growing excitement around town over the pending Inter-city Lacrosse League playoff final between Shamrocks and winners of the Vancouver Combine-New Westminster Commando series, Arnold Ferguson remains calm. Ferguson reports that even if he could, he would not change his present line-up—the squad that dumped North Shore Indians in three straight games in the semifinals. "We've got nothing under the hat, says Ferguson, "No hypnotists, no faith healers."

Ferguson does not intend to scout any of the games on the mainland as he claims that the Rocks know the full potentialities of both the Vancouver teams and knows how to put the knowledge to best use.

The Rocks will engage in light workouts and shooting practices until the finals.

This is the time of year that second-division clubs have fun knocking off the contenders.

The lesser lights, relaxed and with nothing at stake, exact a degree of vengeance in beating the tense teams involved in the flag chase.

Philadelphia Athletics, who will have to pay their way into the world series, have been making merry of late with the top four teams in the American League.

Orchids For Milady

It's "Orchid Night" at Athletic Park tonight as the Victoria Athletics return home for their final Western International League home series of the year. The first 1,000 women will each receive an orchid. The A's meet Spokane Indians at 8 and tomorrow at 2.30 and 8. General manager Reg Patterson, complete with lei, presents ticket-seller Jean Cox with a triple varda. The orchids were flown from Hawaii for the occasion.

Cougars Get Dorohoy; Patrick To Montreal

Eddie Dorohoy, star center and league-leading scorer of the Pacific Coast Hockey League champions, Victoria Cougars, has been re-assigned to the Victoria club for the 1951-52 season by Montreal Canadiens. It was announced by general manager Fred Hutchinson today.

Dorohoy, who had hoped to get another trial with the National Hockey League club, will report directly to the Cougars' camp in Saskatoon, Sept. 20.

Dorohoy last year made a sensational scoring spurge at the close of the season to win the individual scoring crown. Scoring four points in the final game of the season, Dorohoy finished with 29 goals and 58 assists for a total of 87 points, one better than New Westminster's Ken Ulliot.

The addition of Dorohoy gives the Cougars 10 of last year's club who will check in when Hutchinson calls the role in three weeks' time.

EDDIE DORHOY ... he'll be back this year.

COMING BACK

Others are the kid line mates Reb Abbott, Bob Frampton and Andy Heberton; veteran Joe Evans, goalie Jerry Coteau, rugged Joe Medynski, Jack McIntyre, Don Webster and Flori Gogan.

It is also possible that Bernie Strongman will attend the pre-season drills. Strongman, however, is a free agent.

Owner Lester Patrick left for Montreal today, where he will attempt to straighten out the coaching problem occasioned by Roger Leger's apparent refusal to agree to terms for the coming season.

It is thought the Cougars have another coach in mind if Leger decides not to renew his relations with the Cougars. He is still the property of the Montreal Canadiens.

Patrick will also discuss the signing of other players to the Cougars with the Montreal management. While in the East the Cougar boss will attend the annual National Hockey League meeting.

HOLDER STOPPED AT 11

Pitchers Spotligted As Snyder Gets 25th

The pitchers took spotlight in the Western International Baseball League last night.

In the pitching department, Vancouver's Bob Snyder racked up his 25th win of the season, and Spokane's Jim Holder his first defeat. Salem's Bill Bevens posted win No. 20, and Wenatchee's Tony Breisinger achieved an "iron man" rating by pitching both ends of a doubleheader, including the 13-inning nightcap.

Snyder came within a game of matching the W.I.L. mark for total victories in hurling Vancouver to a 104 win over Tri-City in the second game of a doubleheader at Kennewick. Tri-City took the opener 4-0. Vancouver has six games left on its schedule, giving Snyder at least one more chance to equal the 26-7 won-loss record set last year by Bob Kerrigan of Tacoma.

Yakima robbed previously-undefeated Holder of another possible record by defeating the Indians 3-2 at Spokane. The strong right-hander, who was out part of the season with an injured arm, had won 11 in a row, one short of the league consecutive victory mark set by Frank Nelson at Spokane in 1948.

Bevens and Breisinger matched five-hitters in the first game of the doubleheader at Wenatchee. Bevens won 6-1, for his 20th of the season, then retired for the evening. Breisinger stayed on the mound to win the afterpiece 3-2 in 13 innings.

Scores follow:

Yakima 000 001-3 5 1
Spokane 000 000-2 10 8
Savarez and Tieders: Holder and Sheets.

First Game—
Vancouver 000 000-0 4 0
Tri-City 100 020 6-4 8 1
Herrandez, Gunnarson (6) and Ritchey, Nicholas and Peut.

Second Game—
Vancouver 220 010 302-10 15 6
Tri-City 100 020 6-4 8 1
Snyder and Ritchey, Connolly, Zander (2), Michelson (7) and Peut.

First Game—
Salem 000 001-0 4 5 9
Wenatchee 000 000-0 1-3 1 3
Schmidt and Dunn, Breisinger and Robinson.

Second Game—
Salem 011 000 000 0-2 10 1
Wenatchee 000 011 000 1-3 11 3
Schmidt and Dunn, Breisinger and Robinson.

The homer was hit during a Sunday double-header Minneapolis was playing with the Columbus Redbirds. The suit was filed against the Minneapolis Baseball and Athletic Association.

W.I.L. Playoffs Will Be Cancelled

A's Lose To Tigers; Meet Tribe Tonight

By BILL WALKER

Though it won't make any difference to the Victoria Athletics, the Western International Baseball League's post-season playoff series has been cancelled.

This fact, which was learned by the Times last night shortly after the A's practically wrote "30" to their chances of making one of the coveted first division berths, was corroborated by W.I.L. president Robert Abel today from Yakima.

Abel said the matter had been under consideration for the past six weeks or so and was caused by factors beyond the control of the league. He did not elaborate.

However, the first four finishers in the league race will share in the playoff pool originally set aside for this purpose.

The playoffs were to have started next week between Spokane, Vancouver, Salem and Wenatchee. The league season ends Tuesday.

Under the playoff plan, which was adopted at a special league meeting in Spokane midway through the season, the first four teams were to have competed in a "geographical semifinal series" with the winners meeting for the league championship.

AS FOR THE A's...

As for the A's, who return home tonight to meet Spokane Indians in the first of a three-game series, there only hope now is to knock off the Indians and Salem Senators in succession while Wenatchee Chiefs lose all their remaining games. That would put the A's in fourth place and would at least give them a moral victory. At the same time it would give second-place Vancouver an opportunity to catch the Indians who they meet at Vancouver in the season's finale next week.

However, last night's 5-4 defeat at Tacoma closed out a disastrous road season for the club. When Vince DiMaggio doubled home John Kovenz with the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning it marked the A's 46th defeat away from home in 71 games.

HELD LEAD TWICE

The A's had led 2-0 until as late as the eighth inning when the Tigers scored three runs. Jose Bache plated two with a bases-loaded single and DiMaggio put the Tigers ahead coming in on an outfield fly.

The A's went ahead again in the top of the ninth when Gene Thompson doubled home Ben Jeffrey, who had walked, and Rocco Cradine drilled a single through the box to score Thompson. Sol Israel touched off Tacoma's winning rally when he tripled to open the bottom of the ninth.

Jim Prost, who replaced John Tierney in the ninth, was the loser as he allowed Kovenz to get aboard on a bunt single with two men out. DiMaggio did the rest.

VANCOUVER FINAL POSSIBLE

Roland, McElroy Gain Golf Semis

OTTAWA (CP)—Two veterans take on two comparative youngsters today in the semifinals of the Canadian Amateur golf championship.

Phil Farley of Toronto meets a Vancouver smoothie who wasn't born when Farley knocked off the first of the six Ontario amateur golf titles he has won. Farley, 39, is drawn against 18-year-old Laurie Roland, who last week won the Canadian junior championship.

In the other bracket another 39-year-old, Fred Kammer, Jr., of Detroit, takes on Walter McElroy, 24, of Vancouver.

McElroy, wavy-haired, handsome stylist, was low amateur in the 1948 Canadian Open, but dropped out of competitive golf for the next two years to tend to his jewelry business.

A victory in today's 36-hole matches by the West Coast players would give Vancouver the distinction of being the first city to provide both finalists in the Amateur since two New Yorkers won 22 years ago.

Farley yesterday played the best golf of the four semifinalists. He had to defeat Bill Mahwinney of Vancouver, defending champion, 2 and 1.

Their game was a fight all the way. A one-hole lead was the widest margin until the 17th, when Farley played the most beautiful iron of the day—an 85-yarder which stopped a foot from the pin.

Even Farley played par golf to win 4 and 2 over fellow-townsmen Percy Clogg.

Kammer didn't end his match with Roy Keprin of Winnipeg until the last hole, when Keprin missed a 12-footer which would have forced the match into extra holes.

McElroy never lost a hole in defeating burly Don Doe of Granby, Que., 6 and 5.

SENIORS' PREXY
TORONTO (CP)—Dr. John R. Parry of Hamilton was elected president of the Canadian Seniors' Golf Association at the annual meeting Thursday.

Others making the trip from Victoria are R. M. Macleod, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Verley, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. E. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Potts, Dr

Settle Alaska Strike On Cost Of Living Basis

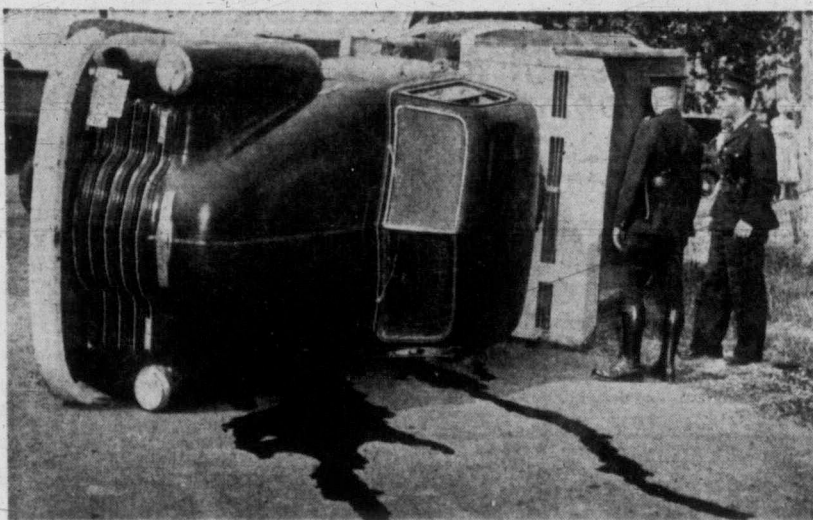

SEWARD, Alaska (UP)—A six-day longshoremen's strike that emptied Alaska's largest port of shipping was over today following a union-management agreement that called for no immediate wage increase.

Seward locals 39 and 82 of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (Ind.) and the Northern Stevedoring and Handling Company agreed to permit the Bureau of Labor Statistics to conduct a cost of living survey in Seward. More than 300 members of the two locals went on strike Saturday for an unnamed increase in the 15 per cent Alaska cost of living wage differential.

A negotiating committee announcement said results of the cost of living survey will be submitted jointly by union and management to the Wage Stabilization Board for any wage adjustment that may be indicated.

'Miss P.N.E.' Of 1970 Shows Up

VANCOUVER (CP)—A five-pound, four-ounce baby girl was in the running for the title of "Miss P.N.E." of 1970.

The infant daughter of Mrs. E. C. Smith just missed being born inside the fair grounds last night. Mrs. Smith was rushed to St.

Paul's Hospital at 8 p.m. as she was about to enter the main gates of the P.N.E. Her daughter was born less than two hours later.

The university term, "Bachelor of Arts," was first adopted in the 13th century.

Millionaire Draft Dodger Held

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Millionaire draft dodger Serge Rubinstein, who made a fortune in the stock market during the Second World War, appears before immigration authorities Sept. 24 for a deportation hearing. Herman R. Landon, chief of the local bureau of immigration, said Rubinstein's case had been transferred here from New York because the millionaire is ill and has been ordered by doctors to remain in a warm climate.

By ART STOTT

You look at the man in the Scotch plaid cap, notice that its colors make his light red hair look a pinkish-orange and you put him down as a tourist. Nobody, you figure, would walk around in a cap like that unless he were a visitor in a strange town. Back home, you guess, he'd be a fairly conservative person, reasonably careful to avoid any headgear or clothing that would make him conspicuous.

If you think twice, you don't laugh at the apparent insanity that drives him to the fancy cap. He's only guilty of the same indiscretion you probably stumble into yourself when you're holidaying away from town. It's just part of a mid-summer, mad-ness that infects tourists. Nobody's entirely immune.

THE YOUNGSTER with you looks at the same guy in the same cap and takes it all in stride—even shows a certain favorable interest. "Why," she asks, "don'tcha buy a hat like that, Daddy?" You explain that you don't want to be stared at, that you don't want to look any more ridiculous than you are naturally. That's the wrong answer.

She looks up at you again with a sort of depraved innocence and says, "Remember that red cap you got in Seattle year before last and that you wear to track meets? It's kinda flashy, isn't it? Makes people look at you." So you tell her that's a badge of distinction. It was given to you at an important event where you were chosen as an official.

She seems a little skeptical about the whole thing. "Sure makes you look like a woodpecker, though, Daddy, the one in my book at home." She gazes after the man in the plaid cap and murmurs, "There are nice colors in that hat, though. Think maybe I could have a skirt made out of stuff like it?"

YOU LET THAT one go and start thinking about your red cap. You'd been pretty proud of that, welcomed the chance to wear it. You'd been a little sorry you weren't a hunter so you could put it on more often and explain to the boys how it was given to you at the U.S. Nationals. A chance to brag a little like that, to big-sport it or a while, does things to your ego. It's good for you.

Then you reach the conclusion that the plaid on the tourist's head is probably doing something for him, too. If your guess was right, and he's a conservative type at home, he probably gets tired of drabness, just like you. He wants to swank a little. He wants to drag his cap out to show the boys down at the office, or to have it on when he's cutting the lawn. He'll probably tell them it's one of the things they wear up in Victoria with the explanation, "Oh sure, they're common enough there. Part of the atmosphere. Good idea, too. We're so stuffy down here, don't we get in for enough color."

YOU MAY NOT like plaid caps and you may shudder at the thought of them for every-day wear, but you can't help being a bit envious of the guy who's in a position to put one on. He doesn't have to care about the remarks he provokes, just so long as he provokes remarks. He catches the public's eye, and there's some satisfaction in being noticed.

Of course, you wouldn't buy a cap like that if you were a tourist down in the States. No, no. Plaid hats aren't for you. Too loud. Look silly.

Mind you, you'll admit, there's nothing against color. A little more of it in men's clothing could be a good thing. Only a guy has to show some judgment. A man doesn't want to look too eccentric.

But, say, did you ever see my sports shirt? Boy, that's a dabr. Cool, too.

Orphans Have 'Day In Day Out' At Annual Picnic

Someone got left at the starting post but there were no worries. Everyone got a prize, and there were lots of other treats besides. Dougy, Jill, Wayne, Donna and Janet had the time of their young lives, on the outing.

Time out for drink from racing and romping at annual Protestant Orphanage picnic is taken by Judy, Barbara, Alan and Wayne. It was day to be remembered for parentless tots. Insurance men who staged affair provided all the trimmings.

Prizes For All In Orphanage Picnic Contest

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

A race with a prize for everyone, from the two-year-old toddler to the 12-year-old miss, was a highlight of the annual picnic staged by Victoria Life Underwriters' Association, for children of the Protestant Orphanage at Elk Lake, Thursday afternoon.

Brought out in private cars, the 29 youngsters swam, raced and ate, and generally did all those things which make a children's picnic fun.

"I don't like swimming. I just want to splash myself," solemnly announced fair-haired Barbara, 6, as she stood at the lake's edge.

"I like it if it's warm," commented another six-year-old, Judy, as she gingerly tried the temperature of the water with her hands.

SHE GAVE UP
For two-year-old Doug the pop was the chief item of the afternoon. As for wee Janet, also 2, racing is all right but not if you can't get past the starting line.

After the races and swimming the children enjoyed sandwiches, pie, ice cream and pop.

Ron Castner was in charge, assisted by John Robertson, Don Brantner, Bill Taylor and John Pym. Violet Clemo, of the Orphanage staff, was in charge of the children.

Funeral services for H. S. Drummond-Hay, 59, of 1840 Robson Street, Vancouver, formerly of Victoria, will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow in Vancouver. He died Thursday in Shaughnessy Military Hospital.

Mr. Drummond-Hay was a native of Manitoba, and lived in B.C. for 32 years. He was a veteran of the first and second World Wars.

He is survived by his widow, a son, Bob, and a daughter, Miss J. Drummond-Hay, all of Vancouver. He also leaves his mother, Mrs. C. Drummond-Hay, of 1419 Fort Street, here; a brother, H. R. Drummond-Hay, of Winnipeg; and a sister, Miss D. Drummond-Hay, of 525 Falkland Road here.

Attend Banff Session
The 49th annual meetings of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants will begin at Banff on Labor Day and end on Thursday. Victoria members who will attend are G. F. Dunn, R. C. Field, G. J. Klenk, C. H. G. Mann, R. T. McKean, I. Taylor and P. S. Watt.

Nanaimo City Council Backs Milk Subsidy

NANAIMO — Nanaimo City Council, backing the drive of dairymen for a government subsidy as a alternative to raising prices of milk to the consumer, has written the B.C. Milk Board and local members of parliament and legislature urging a subsidy or the placing of a ceiling on soaring feed prices.

Ald. R. T. Wilson, who urged council to take the action, said he felt producers should get relief before they are compelled to sell their herds for beef.

Farmers are asking for a 4-cent per quart price increase, but many consumers are unable to pay such a price and would have to reduce their milk purchases, said Wilson.

Mayor Earle Westwood asked council to endorse a motion calling for subsidies. He said it was clear that farmers could not make a living at present prices.

He assured council it was not a question of politics but of "trying to protect citizens of the community."

Ald. Elsie Hall said she felt subsidies would be the only way to keep prices within reach of low wage earners.

Services Held For Kirkham Boy
Funeral services were held this afternoon in St. Mark's Church, Bolekine Road, for 14-year-old Harold Kirkham, 817 Vale Street, who died Thursday night after a six-month illness.

Canon Robert Willis officiated at the service for the youth, who, while bedridden in his home, and unaware that he had but a short time to live, was the recipient of gifts from persons throughout the province.

Pallbearers were H. W. Green, David Woods, Charles Fraser, Clifford Kirkham, Murray Turnbull and James Cannon. Interment was at Royal Oak Cemetery.

Runaway Found Here
David Norman, 11, of 778 Eberts Street, Nanaimo, was picked up by city police Thursday night after being reported missing from his home Tuesday night.

PLANS FOR QUEEN'S WELCOME PUSHED BY JUNIOR C. OF C.

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce went ahead today with plans for an official welcome and a parade for Pacific National Exhibition queen Inez McLeod, of Victoria, who will arrive home from Vancouver Tuesday afternoon.

Although the plans are still not definite it is hoped the navy band will be in attendance. Capt. Norman Foster has promised that his Victoria Girls' Drill Team will be on hand to welcome Miss McLeod, a member of the drill team.

The chamber also hopes to hold a parade to the City Hall where Miss McLeod will be met by the mayor and civic officials.

Milk Subsidy Is Urged By Acting-Mayor Mulliner

A subsidy on milk to aid both farmers and consumers and prevent another rise in price will be recommended to city council's legislative committee meeting on Tuesday by Acting-Mayor Frank Mulliner, he said this afternoon.

The alderman's action follows a move on the part of Island dairy farmers for a boost in their milk price or share of milk revenue. It also comes on the heels of a report that provincial agriculture ministers may back demands for higher returns to dairy farmers.

Chairman of the legislative committee, Ald. Mulliner reiterated a stand he took several months ago regarding the price of milk.

"I do not believe in subsidies generally, but milk should be subsidized owing to the food value for children of the province," he said. "City council should take action."

Mayor Percy George, who will leave the city Tuesday for a tour of the Esquimalt electoral district in connection with the forthcoming by-election, also stated something should be done to give farmers an adequate return for their milk.

"The basic problem is, that the farmer cannot produce milk and earn a living at the price of milk today," said the mayor.

He did not agree with subsidizing the commodity but felt the government might take care of freight charges on hay, which would help the situation.

Boy Injured As Gas Drum Explodes
Nine-year-old Gordon Pedersen, Central Saanich Road, was badly burned about the upper body and face this morning when a drum apparently filled with gas fumes he was playing with exploded at his home.

The boy was rushed to Rest Haven Hospital at Sidney by Police Chief Vernon Lawley. The chief said the drum blew up when Gordon unscrewed the cap.

Blood Campaign Raises 484 Pints
A total of 484 pints of blood were donated at the Fort Street Red Cross clinic in a three-day campaign to raise blood for local and military hospitals in Victoria. It was reported today by Mrs. V. A. Thistle, supervisor of the transfusion service.

Quota of the clinic was 900 pints. "We are anxious to get more blood to set aside in case of an emergency," Mrs. Thistle said. "The present supplies are just sufficient for the immediate needs of local hospitals."

The next clinic will be held Sept. 24, 25, 26 and 27.

$18,000 AWARD
Eight-year-old Michael Sheasgreen, of Ladysmith, has been awarded $18,000 damages by Mr. Justice Manson in a Supreme Court judgment in Vancouver. He lost his leg three years ago in a traffic mishap.

Arthur George Morgan and Cyril Morgan, who operate a business known as Morgan Brothers, were ordered to pay $10,000 in general damages and $8,000 in special damages. The judgment reverses the decision of a trial jury in March, 1948, that youthful bicycle rider was negligent when hit by a truck driven by Arthur George Morgan.

PROUDFOOT TO ASK DECISION ON PARK

Victoria Coalition Member Will Demand Legislature Decide On Strathcona In Fall

Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, M.L.A., will demand that the Legislature at its special November session settle the future of Strathcona Park.

The Victoria Coalition member announced today that he will call for a full discussion of the park issue and a vote to decide it one way or the other.

"Strathcona Park," Capt. Proudfoot said, "was established by an act of the legislature. The government has no right to interfere with that decision. If the original intention of the legislature to maintain a park is to be altered it must be altered by the legislature, and the Strathcona Park Act must be repealed. The question cannot be settled by order-in-council of the government."

Capt. Proudfoot said he would take the opportunity offered by the autumn session to secure the fullest consideration of the plans of the B.C. Power Commission to dam Butte Lake.

"I want to hear, and I believe all members of the legislature want to hear, all the pros and cons of this project," he added. "My belief is that we should do nothing to destroy Strathcona Park, one of Vancouver Island's greatest assets. But if it can be proved that the power project outweighs the value of the park I shall withdraw my objections—but that has yet to be proved."

"Apart from the park question itself, there is a much larger issue of a constitutional nature. That issue is simply whether any government can over-ride a statute of the legislature. In my view, no government has the right to do that. For if such an attempt were to succeed, the supremacy of the legislature over the executive, which is the basis of our parliamentary system, would be abrogated. So far as I'm concerned, I am not prepared to see it abrogated, and I don't think the legislature as a whole is either."

Sunny Weather Will Continue,
Victoria's weather man has taken up where he left off Monday, when a few hours of rain broke the city's summer-long drought.

"Sunny today and tomorrow," is the forecast, with winds generally light except southwesterly at 20 miles in the afternoon.

High temperature expected for both days is about 68, with the overnight low reading estimated at 49.

"We'd like to wait until tomorrow before predicting the outlook for the holiday week-end," weatherman William Mackie said. "There's a cold air mass moving down from the Arctic, and we're keeping an eye on it."

Council Urged To Accept Spencer Offer

C. Of C. Group Adopts Resolution

City council should accept the offer of the Spencer family home on Moss Street for use as an art centre, the civic affairs group of the Chamber of Commerce urged in resolution adopted unanimously at a meeting late Thursday.

Following an explanatory address by G. A. A. Hedden, chairman of the advisory board of the Arts Centre of Greater Victoria, Ald. Percy Scurrah predicted acceptance of the offer by the City Council when the matter is brought up again.

At the last council meeting discussion of the offer was tabled by a 6 to 4 vote.

ALL IN FAVOR
Ald. Scurrah said all members of the council are in favor of accepting the offer, but some wanted further information on how much expense would be involved.

He said that a parks department estimate of annual cost of upkeep of the grounds set at $2,000 was "far too high."

Corresponding situations in other cities were described by George Masters, administrator of Royal Jubilee Hospital. He said the now-famous Toronto art gallery started out in a donated house, and the Edmonton Art Gallery is now in a lovely building obtained in the same manner.

Ship Collision Forces C.P.R. To Curtail Service
Victorians and Vancouverites planning to visit another city over the long holiday week-end found today the C.P.R. was pulling off one of the ships on the run for the next four days.

The company made its decision late Thursday night. It decided the Princess Joan should be dispatched up coast to return to Vancouver passengers from the Princess Kathleen, badly damaged in a Thursday morning sea collision with the C.N.R.'s Prince Rupert.

The decision meant cancellation of last night's midnight sailing from Vancouver and this morning's 9:30 sailing from here.

The night boat from Vancouver will be off again tonight, Saturday and Sunday, while the morning boat service from here will be curtailed until Tuesday.

R. J. Burland, district passenger agent for the C.P.R. in Victoria, reported most people with reservations for the morning trip out were willing to wait for the afternoon or night sailing and that all persons with car reservations had been accommodated on these boats.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Dinner At Government House For Distinguished Guests

This evening His Honor Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Clarence Wallace will honor their guests, Rt. Hon. the Lord Mayor of London and Rt. Hon. the Lady Mayoress of London, Sir Denys Lawson, and Lady Lawson, their party and invited guests at dinner this evening. Covers will be laid for 30.

Pre-Nuptial Party Whirl

Pre-nuptial parties continue to fill the date book of Miss Shirley Baker, whose marriage to Mr. Eric Dowell takes place Sept. 15.

Last evening Miss Sylvia Morrow honored the bride-elect at a miscellaneous shower party. Gifts were concealed in a miniature sailboat decorated in tones of pink and blue. Buffet refreshments were served from a lace-covered table centred with a bowl of pink carnations and violet sweet peas.

Corsage bouquets of gardenias and pink rosebuds were presented to the honor guest, and her mother, Mrs. C. B. Baker. Mrs. Richard B. George assisted in pouring tea and Miss Margaret Morrow served refreshments. Guests were Mesdames Gordon Leeming, Charles Watts, Frank Womersley, Misses Margo King, Kathryn Murphy, Shirley Womersley and Sylvia Southin.

Miss Baker's co-workers in the Department of National Revenue, Taxation Division, honored her at the tea hour recently. A wedding gift was presented to the bride-elect by Miss Isabel Boates, on behalf of the staff.

Earlier in the week, members of Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority gathered at the home of Miss Marion Esche, Bowker Avenue. Gifts were arranged on a Kenwood blanket, a wedding gift from the chapter. Miss Darlene Woodburn and Miss Joyce McCuag assisted in serving refreshments. Guests were Misses Esme Carey, June Douglas, Wyn Graham, Norah Sparks, Hilda Kyle, Betty Lawrie, Mary McAllister, Sylvia Morrow, Isabel Osborne, Joan Roberts, Betty Rushton, Margaret Walker, Grace Weber and Grace Waters.

Ministers' Wives Honored

Wives who accompanied their husbands to this city for the recent meeting of agriculture ministers and deputies in the Empress Hotel were Mrs. A. W. Mackenzie, Nova Scotia; Mrs. A. C. Baker, Prince Edward Island; Mrs. Thomas L. Kennedy, Ontario; Mrs. Maurice E. Hartnett, Saskatchewan; Mrs. O. S. Longman, Alberta; Mrs. J. R. Bell, Manitoba; and Mrs. E. F. Palmer, wife of Dr. Palmer, superintendent of Vinelands Farm, Ontario.

On Monday, the first day of their visit, they motored up the Malahat to Queen Alexandra Solarium.

The following day, Mrs. Harry Bowman, wife of the minister of agriculture, British Columbia, was hostess at a luncheon at Oak Bay Beach Hotel. Mrs. Stella E. Gummow, superintendent of Women's Institutes, and Mrs. W. R. Foster were among the guests.

A sightseeing tour and tea at Butchart's Gardens was also enjoyed by the guests.

Mrs. Bowman entertained at her McNeill Street home for the visitors, Tuesday evening.

The party left for Vancouver the following day to attend the Pacific National Exhibition.

Faith MacDonald Honored

September bride-elect, Miss Faith MacDonald, was honored at a kitchen shower recently when Miss Diana Wilson entertained in her Maddock Street home. Gifts were arranged in a decorated barrel. Guests included Mesdames J. A. MacDonald, D. Southall, G. May, Misses S. Harrison, G. May, S. Starmer and J. Cryer.

A miscellaneous shower was held in her honor Tuesday evening. Mrs. G. Marshall and Mrs. C. Little were co-hostesses at the home of the latter, Michigan Street. The guest of honor was presented with a corsage bouquet of carnations, while her mother, Mrs. J. A. MacDonald received yellow roses. Those attending were Mesdames I. Laing, I. MacDonald, W. Fernyhough, A. J. Whitfield, N. Nicholls, Misses P. Waring, I. Hummerstone and I. Lufd.

Members of the Christian Science Moditer Youth Forum gathered at the home of the bride-elect recently where they presented her with a corsage bouquet of white gardenias and her mother with white gladioli. Miss MacDonald also received many gifts. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. G. Stanford, Mr. and Mrs. G. Bosdet, Mr. and Mrs. D. Southall, Mr. and Mrs. L. Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Estes, Mrs. E. Starmer, D. Wilson, S. Harrison, J. Cryer, B. Miller, D. Tupper, M. Griffin, P. Patterson, Messrs. D. Francis, J. Cryer, A. Macmillan and M. Dighton.

Honored At Farewell Tea

Mrs. C. J. Meredith, who leaves shortly to make her home in Hamilton, Ont., was guest of honor at a tea yesterday in Eaton's Victoria Room.

Joint-hostesses were Mesdames C. Brown, E. Cox, C. Jaffery and L. Aylard.

The tea table was centred with a silver bowl of talisman roses and sweet peas. Mesdames R. Newell, A. Murray and H. L. Webster, poured tea. There were 50 invited guests.

Mrs. A. W. Hazelhurst, Muskoka Cottage, Sidney, has returned from Cranbrook, B.C., where she visited her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Smith. She was also the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Gregory-Allen, in Vancouver.

Mrs. Ada Hogg, who has been the guest of her father, Mr. Horace Simpson, Peatt Road, Langford, has returned to her home at Naramatta.

Mrs. F. J. Nobbs, Montreal Street, has left for Toronto, where she will visit her sister, Mrs. W. Eland, formerly of Victoria. While there she will attend the Canadian National Exhibition.

MR. AND MRS. JAN ZACK

Artist Here From Brazil Proposes Local School

Enthusiasm of two of his Victoria pupils at the Banff School of Fine Arts this summer, led Jan Zach, well-known artist of Rio de Janeiro to the thought of opening a school of fine arts here.

Arriving in Victoria Saturday from Banff, with his wife the former Ella Monk of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Zach are staying with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Monk, 1557 Yale Street.

"I feel there is much interest for such a school here," said Mr. Zach today who instructed advanced students at Banff, in painting technique, the theory of painting and historic valuation.

His two Victoria pupils were Frances Cameron, wife of George Cameron, and Miss Lillian Emerson, he said.

A native of Slany, Czechoslovakia, Mr. Zach studied in the Superior School of Industrial Arts in Prague. He went to decorate the Czechoslovakia pavilion at the New York World's Fair in 1938. In co-operation with existing art groups he went to Brazil in 1940, and held his first exposition—under patronage of the Ministry of Education.

If a school were established here it would be for the study of painting in all its media, sculpture and interior decorating. Mr. Zach does work in mosaic, graphito, stain glass, stone and bronze as well as painting in oils, sketching, and mural work.

The visit here for Mrs. Zach is the first return to her home city since she left to take a position with the British Joint Staff Mission at Washington nine years ago. She went to Brazil six years ago and for a time worked with the procurement division of U.N.R.R.A.

"Brazil is terribly interesting but has a very different way of life to ours in Canada—fundamentally different," she said.

Mr. and Mrs. Zach will be in the city for an indefinite stay.

Diet Of Boiled Leaves, Beans Usual In Northern Greece Worker Finds

OTTAWA (CP)—Boiled leaves and beans with a pinch of salt—that's the monotonous diet for many in Greece, six years after the Second World War ended.

A grim picture of starvation and malnutrition in northern Greece was unfolded here by Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, executive secretary of the Unitarian Services Committee in Canada. She had just returned from a two-months tour of battle-scarred Europe.

This was the sixth annual fact-finding visit for the red-haired social worker. She welcomed the press in a cubby-hole office (48 Sparks St.) swamped with letters from grateful mothers across Europe.

Along one wall were pinned pictures in crayon by children of these mothers, and by children without mothers.

In a small cabinet beside her desk, carefully wrapped in cellophane were two beautiful tablecloths embroidered and loomed by girls at the committee's training centres.

The trim, uniformed woman described her 15,000-mile trip through France, Austria, Italy and Greece, but her main interest lay in the troubles of northern Greece, where she said $30,000 "is needed now to help them."

Dr. Hitschmanova spent 12 days traveling through Grammos, Vitsi and Pallas Mountains in northern Greece. She told of 700,000 refugees who returned home in 1949-50 to find 472 villages destroyed.

In one village the mayor said: "We would eat anything a little softer than rocks; our lives are in your hands."

She showed pictures of children, stomachs bloated with hunger—"because in many villages they are fed only one meal, consisting of boiled leaves and beans." She told of a woman who for lack of anything better, was attempting to cultivate fields with an axe, and of a woman who had nothing but a loaf of bread between her and starvation.

"These people in Greece will surely die if aid does not come soon," she said.

Winnipeg Stole Them

These Victorians have arrived in Winnipeg to start careers with that city's ballet company which is to perform for Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip during their October tour of Canada. The Victoria dancers whose talents have been recognized by the prairie city are, from left: Beverley Iving, Victor Duret and Patricia Sparks. They were students of Wynne Shaw. A fourth Victorian, Bill McGrath, joined Winnipeg company last year.

IN HOLLYWOOD

Screen's Greatest Lover Was Jealous Of His Wife

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What was Rudolph Valentino really like?

The screen's greatest lover has been dead 25 years this month, and legend has already clouded his real nature. There are still many people in Hollywood who knew Valentino in his prime and I sought out their impressions of the famous man.

"He was a pretty good fellow about publicity," remarked veteran publicity agent Frank Pope. "He would co-operate on just about anything you might suggest, although he was one star who really didn't need to be publicized. The women did the publicity job for him."

"He was nice enough to the people he knew and liked, but when he didn't like someone—watch out!"

One of those he didn't like was Harry Reichenback, a dynamic man who was doing some special publicity work on Valentino. Once when the actor was making up for a scene Reichenback bustled up, placed his hand on Valentino's shoulder and started talking.

"Screen me in," Valentino ordered his valet Chris. Reichenback watched open-mouthed as the valet placed a screen around the disdainful Valentino.

NO "WOMAN CHASER"
"He wasn't a woman-chaser," said Dev Jennings, who photographed Valentino in "The Cobra" and is still a cameraman at Paramount. "When I knew him, he was very much in love with his wife, Natacha Rambova, and was very jealous of her."

"Rudy lived very quietly. He preferred a few friends at his home, rather than big parties... Rudy's hobbies were riding, fencing and boxing. Here's one thing most people don't know—his left ear was cauliflowered..."

'STRAIGHTENING BILL'S TIE'

Katie Dunn Snags Stogies From Corpse; Is Fined $28

ATLANTA (UP)—Bill Reed was laid out in his casket just the way he requested—with three cigars in the coat pocket—when friend Katie Dunn came along, jerked up the body by the necktie and took the stogies away.

"That's a hell of a way to bury of Bill," Katie said.

Bill's widow Louise called police and had Katie arrested for disorderly conduct. When her case came up yesterday, Katie told Judge A. W. Callaway she was "only straightening Bill's tie."

"It's a wonder you didn't take the matches, too, you were so drunk," she told Katie.

GROW FINE SCALLOPS
Digby, N.S., and the neighboring Bay of Fundy produce one of the most famous species of the 300 varieties of Canadian scallops.

At this point Katie placed herself on the mercy of the court, saying she did not know of Bill's desire to be buried with the cigars. She was fined $28.

Vast Dam System Impresses Young

By HARRY YOUNG, Times Business Editor

MONTREAL—To anyone who has visited Saguenay Valley there cannot be the remotest lingering doubt that man at least has beaten the beaver out of sight... when it comes to dam building.

This dammed valley, as it might be called, has a watershed which stretches up into little explored Quebec. Its main river is the Saguenay, which, near the aluminum town of Arvida becomes a tidal and navigable.

Right down to the spot where the tide finally backs up, the Aluminum Co. of Canada has erected such a series of water walls that the rivers of the watershed have become an almost continuous series of storage lakes. This extends for a distance of some 170 miles upstream from the lowest and biggest of all the hydro-electric developments of this remarkable area.

WINTER WATER ASSURED

The top storage dam is at Dangerous Pass in a part of the country frequented only by trappers and the like. The idea of these upper dams is to ensure that even in winter when the ice forms thick on the top, there will be adequate supply of water flowing below so that the turbines will never have to be idle.

It also means that practically every ounce of waterpower is corralled. Some 60 miles north of Arvida are the two new electric generating stations on the Peribonka River, a tributary of the Saguenay. These two which are at present in various stages of construction, will each be slightly smaller than the first stage of the operation planned for Kemano.

When McNeely DuBoise paid a visit to Arvida this week he inspected these two new plants and came away determined that at least the upper of the two dams is to be completed in order to catch next year's spring run-off.

Such is the demand for aluminum and electric power generally that every inch of water counts powerfully, if all the machines of defense are to be kept going. After the Peribonka water is used through these two operations it flows into the massive Lake St. John—eighty square miles in area.

HIGHEST STORAGE TRAP

This is the biggest of all the storage traps in the valley, and it has at its southern end the Ile de Maligne power station, with some 500,000 horsepower capacity. The de Maligne is operated by the Saguenay Power Co. and is a subsidiary of Alcan. Its power goes partly to Arvida for the manufacture of aluminum but chiefly to Quebec for use in the pulp and paper mills.

But the showpiece of the whole hydro operation is the Shipshaw No. 1 and 2, which make the final use of the water of the Saguenay before it passes into the form of an estuary.

Shipshaw No. 2, of which I will have more to say later on is the second largest hydro-electric power plant in the world. It has a capacity of 1,200,000 horsepower, and is topped only by the Coulee Dam, which, however, is unable to make the full use of its capacity throughout the year. This gives Shipshaw the world's greatest annual output.

It is interesting at this stage to realize that this massive Shipshaw will be dwarfed eventually by the Kemano operation. Here when the full plan is brought into being, the output will be 1,500,000.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Grain prices moved narrowly and irregularly in moderately active trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Most prices were higher early in the session but fell off near the close.

Commercial demand was light, with shippers picking up oats and barley, and processors also purchasing barley. Moderate hedging sales were well taken. Some buying was stimulated by unfavorable harvest conditions in the west.

'Gina' Author Returns To Write Another Book

The author of "Gina," a best-selling novel now in its sixth edition after selling 400,000 copies, is back at his home at Lakeshore, on Quamichan Lake near Duncan, after arranging New York publication of a new book.

He is George Albert Gray, and his new novel, "Beggars Might Ride," is currently being featured at Brentano's in New York, the world's largest book store.

Mr. Gray intends to spend the next few months working on a third book, while staying at his parents' home on Quamichan Lake.

The successful author believes that Vancouver Island is the "finest place in the world" for a writer to live and work at creative writing. Mr. Gray's favorite diversion, swimming in Quamichan Lake, fits ideally into his writing plans, he said.

GEORGE A. GRAY

"Deep Purple"

It seems years, ago, yet just yesterday, the piano our eldest first started to play. She detested the scales, as all daughters do, but she stuck it out, & saw it thru. She doesn't get this, from MY family tree, to which the G.F., does heartily agree. I'm more the type to sit down & play, on the black keys mostly, & not the hard-way. Goodness knows, a teacher I had, every Saturday morning when I was a lad. She was a very tall spinster, rather picturesque, & she fought me somehow, to play Humoresque. And when company came, & my sister did sing, I had to sit down & murder the thing. There was no humor that I could get, just old-fogey stuff... a minuet. Mother gave up, this Saturday war, so my teacher didn't bother to come any more. I can still sprawl down & hit a black key, 'cept no one will listen... not even me. My timing is fair, but the notes are all wrong, so I play it softly & drown it with song. A thousand times all this I've regretted, if only I'd stuck... instead of fretted. And so of course I'm more than glad, our eldest DOESN'T, take after her dad. She's pounded away, scaled every jam, since her first piece about Mary's Lamb. I used to laze back in my favorite chair, & say to her, when struggling there: "Don't give up, like others do," then tell her this story. I've been telling you. "Cause just as sure, as here I sit, soon o'er the keys you hands will flit." THAT... as I said was years ago, but yesterday only, as time does flow. "Cause the loveliest music is flooding the room, she's quietly playing in the living room. "Deep Purple"... yes... that's what she's playing, now "Night & Day" as the words I am saying. I put down my pencil, at the wall I stare. I go flop again, in that same old chair. She turns her head, as on she plays, she smiles at me, as there I laze. Her big brown eyes at me are winking, & both of us know... WHAT THE OTHER IS THINKING.

THE ROYAL EDINBURGHES

(This is the 12th in a series of articles on Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. The 13th will appear tomorrow.)

By MARGARET SAVILLE

Princess Elizabeth's trans-Atlantic trip is arousing the greatest interest in the Royal Family. The King and Queen have been recalling their own visit to Canada in 1939 and glancing through their scrapbooks of the tour.

All the photographs which the King took have been carefully preserved and there was a good deal of laughter as Princess Elizabeth studied the Queen's outfits, once so elegant and fashionable. Princess Elizabeth also recalled the picture postcards which she and Princess Margaret received from Banff where the King and Queen spent a few days holiday crossing the Dominion and how they later went specter, now Lady Brabourne, is a life-long friend of Princess Elizabeth who is godmother to her son John. When Prince Charles gives a tea-party at Clarence House, John is often among the little guests who gather round the low table to drink a cup of milk and eat sponge fingers and play with the toy horses and trains on the carpet afterwards.

TO FLY MAIL

It will probably be Princess Elizabeth who writes the family letters home. As the Duke once remarked: "I don't pretend to be a good correspondent as a rule." All the Royal mail will be flown directly back to London and taken straight to the private Royal post office in the courtyard of Buckingham Palace where mail for the King and Queen and the members of the Royal Family, wherever they may be at the moment, is always handled under conditions of strictest secrecy. So many people actually live in the palace itself that a postman walks round delivering letters and parcels to the various suites and offices inside the grey walls every morning. And the palace is the only place in Britain to which mail is delivered on Sundays.

FINN WOMEN FIRST

Finland, in May of 1905, was the first country in the world to give women the right to vote.

At one time, tattooing was used mostly as a means of identifying convicts and slaves.

Tells Grandmother Of Trip

Princess Elizabeth has also been to tea with Queen Mary at Marlborough House to tell her about the coming trip. They sat together at the little round table in front of the window in Queen Mary's turquoise and green sitting-room while she boiled the silver spirit kettle, filled the antique pot that once belonged to Queen Victoria and poured into the two cups of mauve eggshell-fine china. Then Princess Elizabeth gave her grandmother all the details of the coming tour for Queen Mary is the counsellor of all the Royal Family whose opinion is always asked, and whose advice is respected. She has expressed warm approval of the Royal Edinburghs' travel project, only regretting she does not know Canada much better herself. In her younger days an Atlantic crossing was not the comfortable voyage it is today and Queen Mary has always been a very poor sailor, suffering severely every time she went to sea even on the English Channel. She studied the photograph of the liner, the Canadian Pacific "Empress of France," and instructed the Princess to write and let her know what modern life afloat is like. Princess Elizabeth will indeed send regular letters to Queen Mary while she is overseas. There is great mutual affection between them, the Queen-Mother happy to see her granddaughter's graceful acceptance of the duties of her exalted rank and her warm devotion to her husband and children. Queen Mary believes in the simple feminine virtues and in the primary importance of married life.

Princess Margaret is frankly envious of her elder sister's trip. The King's younger daughter has wanted to cross the Atlantic herself for a long time and although she is due to accompany the King and Queen on their state visit to Australia next year, she would have been only too delighted to travel with the Edinburghs too. As it is she must content herself by accompanying them to Liverpool to wave them off as they sail and begging her sister to write regularly and mail back all the newspapers and magazines.

IN TOUCH WITH MOTHER

The Duke of Edinburgh will also have a number of family letters to write during his trip. He always keeps in touch with his mother, the white-haired Princess Andrew of Greece who now devotes all her time to charitable work. Though she did come to London at the time of her son's wedding and again at the births of his two children, she lives chiefly on the Aegean Island of Tinos where she has founded an Order of Deaconesses, habitually wearing their prescribed grey cloak and purple veil. She no longer takes any part in social affairs but she likes to hear current news from her son and daughter-in-law.

The Duke has three good-looking elder sisters, all married to former German Princes, who look for his letters. He will also want to report on his trip to his uncle, Earl Mountbatten who supervised him like a father in his boyhood and directed his education. Both Earl and Countess Mountbatten know Canada well, having several times spent holidays there in pre-war years. The Earl was there on naval duty too during the period of hostilities, being in Quebec with Mr. Winston Churchill for the famous conference at the Chateau Frontenac. Many of the senior Mountbatten's friends will notice that his nephew bears great resemblance to him, with the same air of confidence and the same clear Viking profile and firm mouth and the same individual voice. Both men are brilliant sailors who would never be satisfied to follow any other career, and both possess that quality which has often been described as "the Mountbatten magic," an innate flair for successfully mastering a difficult situation almost as if by instinct. Again Earl and Countess Mountbatten's elder daughter,
